Colson pleads guilty to role in Ellsberg plot

60% turnout predicted for huge primary vote

The word for voters in Tuesday's direct primary election is "be prepared."

The wise voter would do well to fill out his sample ballot tonight, rather than wading through one of the longest ballots in recent history on election day.

In addition to a record number of candidates — over 1,200 on the Los Angeles County ballot alone — for party nominations in Congress, top state executive posts, the State assembly and Senate, as well as numerous nonpartisan county and judicial posts, voters will make their choice on nine ballot propositions and several local measures.

Polling places in both Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Election officials are predicting a 60 per cent turnout of Los Angeles Countys 3,197,078 registered voters, and a 55 to 58 per cent turnout of San Bernardino County's 271,426 registered voters.

Local measures to be decided by valley voters include Propositions P, T and W.

Proposition T is a revenue limit election sought by the Pomona School District to increase the general purpose tax rate by 72 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

The measure would not increase the general purpose tax rate above its present $4.22 per $100 assessed valuation because any approved increase would be offset by state funding.

The measure, if passed, would raise $1.5 million to continue present programs and services with no cutbacks. If rejected by voters, the district tax rate would drop by the same 72 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Proposition P is a similar measure proposed by the Chaffey Union High School District to raise the base revenue limit per student by five per cent for two years.

The general purpose tax rate would increase from the present $2.39 per $100 of assessed valuation to $2.89 the first year and drop slightly to $2.79 the second year.

The district seeks to raise $4,430,850 during the two years to be used for building maintenance and capital outlay.

Proposition W calls on voters to decide whether the Metropolitan Water District should be authorized to finance its operations through the sale of revenue bonds, rather than through pay-as-you-go increases in property taxes and water rates.

A special election will be held in Claremont Tuesday to fill a vacancy on the City Council left by the resignation of Craig McManigal.

Sentencing scheduled for June 21

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Charles W. Colson, one of President Nixon's former top advisers, pleaded guilty today to being part of a plot to try to assure the conviction of Daniel Ellsberg in the Pentagon Papers trial last year.

Colson could get as much as five years in prison and a fine of $5,000 for his plea to a single count of obstruction of justice, in exchange for dropping of all other charges against him in connection with the Watergate coverup and the Ellsberg cases.

Colson, 42, was special counsel to Nixon and was ranked higher in the White House hierarchy than John W. Dean III, the highest official who previously pleaded guilty or was convicted in connection with the Watergate scandal.

Colson is to be sentenced June 21 by Federal Judge Gerhard A. Gesell.

In exchange for the guilty plea, Colson agreed to hand over to Watergate prosecutors any documents in his possesion that they might ask for, and may also be asked to testify at forthcoming trials of other former White House and Nixon reelection campaign officials facing Watergate-related charges.

Colson told Gesell that a recent statement by the judge on the importance of this being a government of laws and not men had a profound effect on him. Later, outside the courtroom after being released pending sentence, Colson red a statement to reporters.

"I have watched with a very heavy heart the country I love being torn apart by the most divisive and bitter controversy in our nation's history," he said. "I want to be free to contribute to that resolution no matter whom it may help, no matter whom it may hurt."

Colson said he now knew what it felt like to be a criminal defendant, to be the subject of "repeated and sometimes deliberate leaks."

"It is wrong whether it was done to him (Ellsberg), to me or to others,' Colson said.

Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski charged that Colson had obstructed justice in the Ellsberg case "by devising and implementing a scheme to defame and destroy the public image and credibility of Daniel Ellsberg and those engaged in the legal defense of Daniel Ellsberg, with the "intent to influence, obstruct and impede the conduct and outcome" of Ellsberg's criminal trial to insure his conviction.

Specifically, Jaworski charged that in July and August of 1971, Colson and "others unnamed" furthered the scheme by:

—Releasing "defamatory and derogatory" allegations to news media

—Trying to obtain Ellsberg's psychiatric records through the White House "plumbers" unit.

The formal charge said the scheme was carried out by Colson and "others unnamed," and Merrill at the brief court proceeding specifically mentioned that others involved were also at the White House.

It has been rumored for months that Colson had been involved in plea bargaining with Watergate prosecutors, rumors that Colson has emphatically denied. The breakthrough apparently came last Friday.

DEATH, DRAMA IN DOWNTOWN SAN FRANCISCO

A bride of one day was shot and killed by her husband before shoppers in front of a downtown San Francisco department store. A woman bystander points out the suspect (not shown) to arriving policemen, one of whom has his revolver drawn. The suspect was being held by a young witness who knocked him down with a flying tackle. The suspect fired six shots at his wife, at least three striking her.

Celibacy 'obsolete'

Controversial priest says he's 'fascinated by power'

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Rev. John McLaughlin, a Jesuit priest who took a vow of poverty, is paid $25,000 a year as a White House speech writer, lives in Washington's plush Watergate complex and says he is fascinated by power.

"Clearly power is just as great an emotional experience as making love," he said in an interview published in People magazine, "and it might not be as short term."

McLaughlin, 47, said, "My lifestyle is avante garde, salaried and autonomous."

He said he opposes releasing the White House tapes, an act he compares to "losing your virginity —you reveal one and then how do you stop?" He defends President Nixon's use of profanity as nothing more than "a form of emotional drainage."

McLaughlin said in the interview that he thinks celibacy for priests is "obsolete." "I look forward to the day when women can become priests," he said.

His presence on the White House staff and his defense of President Nixon have thrust McLaughlin into controversy. He was summoned to Boston to talk to his religious superior, the Very Rev. Robert T. Cleary, Jesuit provincial of New England for "prayer and reflection."

Saturday, Cleary said McLaughlin will be allowed to keep his job and its earthly trappings as long as he takes time off every year for prayer and reflection.

Cleary said in Boston that he and McLaughlin "talked and reflected together, and individually prayed over these matters raised in recent weeks."

"I have decided with Father McLaughlin that he will fulfill this annual spiritual requirement when his schedule permits."

Shoppers stunned as husband guns down his bride

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Shots rang out in a crowd of shoppers in front of a downtown department store and a bride of one day fell dead to the pavement, shot by her husband.

Police said a witness to the shooting followed the assailant and knocked him down with a flying tackle, holding him until officers arrived.

Police booked the suspect, Timothy M. Griffith, 30, on suspicion of murder. His wife was identified by coroner's deputies as Carmen Griffith.

Homicide inspectors said Griffith fired six shots from a .38-caliber pistol at his wife and at least three of the bullets struck her.

Mutilated bodies of three soldiers found by anglers

McCORMICK, S.C. (UPI) — Two fishermen, spotting a motorcycle hanging over a ledge and a helmet bobbing in the water, found the mutilated bodies of three soldiers Sunday on the banks of the Clark Hill Reservoir.

Authorities said the throats of two of the victims had been slashed and the other suffered a massive head wound from a heavy instrument. One of the men also had been shot and his shoulder split open.

Officers said the empty wallets of two of the men were found near the bodies, indicating robbery as a possible murder motive.

The Army said Saturday was payday at nearby Ft. Gordon, where the soldiers, all privates, were enrolled in the U.S. Army Southeastern Signal School.

Two of the three victims were identified by the public information office at Ft. Gordon, as James William Donaghy, 18, 5020 Knox Court, El Paso, Tex.,and Mark E. Bennett, 23, 6602 West Karen Lee Lane, Glendale, Ariz.

The men last were seen Saturday morning at Ft. Gordon, about 20 miles from the reservoir, a fishing and recreation lake on the South Carolina-Georgia border near Augusta, Ga.

Dr. Joel Sexton, chief pathologist for the South Carolina Medical University at Charleston, said the men had not been dead over 24 hours when they were discovered around 4 a.m. EDT Sunday by two fishermen.

The fishermen said they noticed a motorcycle hanging precariously on a ledge and a motorcycle helmet bobbing in the water. Rowing ashore, they found one body near the vehicle. The other bodies were about 15 feet away. The motorcycle was owned by one of the victims, police said.

Sheriff J.P. Gable said there were signs of a struggle near the bodies.

The slayings occurred about 100 yards from the campsites of weekend campers, who were being questioned for possible clues, the sheriff said.

The bodies were taken to Greenwood, S.C., where autopsies were to be performed by Sexton in conjunction with officers from the Criminal Investigation Division at Ft. Gordon.

Law says Robin Hood can aid motorists, but not himself

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — "Robin Hood" has been riding his 10-speed bicycle to the rescue of motorists whose parking meters have expired, but his merry scheme may have run afoul of the local sheriff.

Chivalrous to the end, Bruce Vanier, 23, says he's willing to be a test case.

Vanier was ordered to appear Tuesday before Assistant City Attorney David Felger to discuss possible violations of the law of the realm.

Vanier, an unemployed construction worker, spends his time patrolling the streets in search of expired parking meters. He dismounts, deposits the required change and leaves a note under the car's windshield wiper.

"Hello! You have just been rescued from a $5 parking ticket by the Robin Hood Public Parking Aid," The note reads. "Your time had expired, endangering you to the perils of a parking violation. Could you please send $1 so we may continue to bring this service to you and others?"

Vanier leaves a stamped, self-addressed envelope with each note. He says he and a friend, who started the enterprise by investing $12 each, are just about breaking even.

"Dear Robin Hood," began one note accompanying payment from one motorist, "Keep up the good work! I'd gladly pay you a dollar any day than a $5 spot to the cops."

Vanier said, "I suppose you could look at it many ways —as a public service, as a moneymaking thing' or as ripping off the city. I'd like to think of it as a public service. If I break even, I'll be happy."

Felger doesn't know quite what to call it yet. He said on Tuesday he will discuss possible violation of an ordinance which prohibits parking more than two hours in a two-hour zone regardless whether more money has been deposited in the meter. He said he would also discuss possible charges of throwing a missile at a car and begging.

Felger, who doesn't appear to be quite as ruthless as the legendary sheriff of Nottingham, also said it is possible there is no violation involved at all and that Vanier's activity is perfectly legal.

"It could be a close question," Felger said.

Vanier said he was willing to be a test case if charges were brought. However, he has suspended his rescue work until he meets with Felger.

"It was sort of a test run," he said. "The public seemed to like it."

High court OKs Earl Ray's plea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today cleared the way for James Earl Ray to withdraw his guilty plea in the 1968 slaying of Martin Luther King Jr., on grounds his attorneys may have influenced his decision because of a planned book about the assassination.

The Court's decision could mean a new trial for Ray, sentenced to 99 years in prison after pleading guilty in 1969 to killing the civil rights leader in a Memphis motel.

Clearance for a possible change of plea came in the Court's refusal to hear appeals in which the state of Tennessee claimed that the guilty plea was voluntarily and intelligently made and therefore was legally valid.

The 6th U.S. Court of Appeals had ordered a hearing to decide whether Ray's constitutional rights to due process and assistance of counsel were violated and that he therefore was entitled to change his plea. That hearing now will be held.

Shortly after he was sentenced, Ray charged that Percy Foreman, the criminal lawyer from Houston, had coerced him into pleading guilty. Ray had given Foreman his case after dismissing his original lawyer, Arthur Hanes, who had signed a book contract on Ray's behalf with author William Bradford Huie.

S.B. Co. officials seek public help in restoring flood funds

San Bernardino County officials today called for a last-minute display of public support for a bill authorizing federal funding for an initial section of the Cucamonga flood control channel as the measure goes before the House of Representatives Thursday for final approval.

A $1.2 million allocation in the 1975 federal budget for the channel work has been approved by the U.S. Senate and House appropriations committees. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers reported it has the capability to conduct $3.2 million in construction during the next fiscal year, but the committee allowed only the $1.2 million amount for the start of the project construction, according to County Supervisor Bob Townsend.

Townsend, whose district includes Chino, Montclair and Ontario, issued a plea this morning for organized groups and individuals to contact their federal representatives to "see to it that this project isn't stymied again."

"It took a lot of time to get the project to this point and I hope local citizens will urge their representatives to cast a favorable vote on Thursday," Townsend stated.

It was Townsend who brought together Rep. Victor Veysey and the corps of engineers to confer on seeking federal funds for the project. Veysey then carried the proposal through various subcommittees and committees. Through testimony by Veysey and Art Sidler, county flood control engineer, the proposal was written into a bill for House consideration.

In previous years, according to Townsend, the funding proposal had been killed in the appropriations committee. The flood control project planning began in 1964.

Cucamonga Flood Control project is a seven-year construction project from beginning to end and will cost in excess of $100 million, according to Townsend. Fund allocations will be made by the federal government each year.

The Cucamonga channel system is designed to carry storm water from above Upland to the Prado Basin south of Chino.

Brown, Flournoy lead on election eve

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Democratic Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. and Republican Controller Houston I. Flournoy are sure winners in their parties' gubernatorial primaries Tuesday, a Los Angeles newspaper survey revealed today.

The door-to-door survey was of 783 registered California voters in nine precincts. The four-day survey was the fourth conducted by the newspaper of the 1974 governor's race.

Of 518 Democrats polled, 141 committed themselves to Brown, 68, to Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, 44 to San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, 34, to San Francisco businessman William Matson Roth, 13, to Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, 5 to Los Angeles County Supervisor Baxter Ward and 5 to Claremont attorney Herb Hafif.

The undecided numbered 179 and 29 either declined to answer or said they would not vote.

The number of Democrats committing themselves to a candidate compared to those in a survey in late April increased from 46.8 per cent to 59.8 per cent.

Compared to 242 who committed themselves in the earlier poll, 110 picked Brown, 63 Moretti, 36 Alioto, 22 Roth, 10 Waldie, 1 Ward and none Hafif.

Of 265 Republicans who participated in the survey, 80 supported Flournoy and 36 Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke. Undecided numbered 131 and 18 persons declined to state their choice or said they would not vote.

Republicans committing themselves compared to those sampled in late April dropped from 50.3 per cent to 43.8 per cent.

In late April, 92 supported Flournoy and 54 Reinecke.

Darting from city to city in airplanes, Republican Houston Flournoy and Democrats Edmund G. Brown Jr. and Bob Moretti scheduled as many news conferences and appearances as possible in their last-minute attempts to sway voters.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, a Democrat, also had planned a flying tour but called it off and decided instead to visit his city's Union Square, Chinatown and Fishermans Wharf.

A primary election record of 9.49 million Californians are eligible to cast ballots on 29 rivals to succeed Gov. Ronald Reagan, a Watergate-spawned "political reform" initiative, U.S. Senate candidates and many other statewide campaigns.

Election officials in the most populous counties forecast a voter turnout of generally 60 per cent. Secretary of State Brown predicted a statewide turnout of 62.5 per cent, or 5.9 million voters.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, the major foe of Controller Flournoy for the GOP gubernatorial nomination, said his campaign financing was rejuvenated in the past several days with unexpectedly large sums of contributions.

Reinecke, whose funds virtually dried up after his indictment on three perjury counts in connection with the ITT antitrust affair, said he would use the donations to buy valuable television time. Previously, he had purchased no TV commercials.

Only two current statewide officers — Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles and Republican Attorney General Evelle Younger — are seeking re-election.

Democratic voters will be faced with 18 candidates for governor, led by Brown, Alioto, Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, millionaire businessman William Matson Roth and Rep. Jerome R. Waldie of Antioch.

U. S. Sen. Alan Cranston faced token opposition in his quest for the Democratic nomination for a second term.

On the Republican side, conservative Sen. H. L. Richardson of Arcadia and Earl Brian, a Vietnam War hero and former Reagan administration official, battled for the Senate nomination. Both complained of a lack of funds in the era of Watergate.

Nine statewide ballot propositions also will be decided, including controversial Prop. 9, the "political reform" initiative. It would clamp spending limits on candidates, prohibit direct campaign contributions by lobbyists, restrict lobbyist spending to $10 a month per person and create a $1 million commission to enforce the "reforms."

Spawned by the Watergate scandal, the measure was sponsored by Common Cause and the Peoples Lobby and was opposed by labor leaders, who fear it would threaten the freedom of labor lobbyists.

Won't give in to Arabs Israeli leader maintains

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister-designate Yitzhak Rabin said today his government will seek a Middle East peace from a position of military strength and will never give in to Arab demands to return to the pre-1967 war borders.

Rabin, commander in the Six Day War that captured wide swatches of Egypt, Syria and Jordan in 1967, needed parliamentary approval for his shaky three-party coalition before taking over from Golda Meir.

The vote was scheduled for 5 p.m. (11 a.m. EDT).

Menahem Begin, leader of the right-wing Likud political bloc, criticized Rabin's ministers personally and called the Rabin cabinet a "government of national insult" because it included no members of the Likud bloc. He said there should be early elections even if Rabin won the vote.

In a 45-minute speech to parliament, Rabin outlined policies almost identical to those of Mrs. Meir, 76, who is moving from her Tel Aviv apartment and establishing a residence at a desert kibbutz where she will do four hours of chores daily and write her memoirs.

Missing from the new government with Mrs. Meir will be such well known personalities as Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, Foreign Minister Abba Eban and Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir.

Rabin said his 19-man coalition cabinet would "safeguard Israel's security, foster the strength and power of the IDF (Israel Defense Forces) and strive constantly and persistently for a true peace."

"Israel will not return—even within the context of a peace treaty—to the June 1967 lines," he said. "These lines are not defensible borders, and they constitute a temptation for aggression against us, as has been proven in the past."

Rabin did not call specifically for a peace treaty with Egypt but said, "it follows that the next stage on the road to peace must be between Egypt and Israel," steps that could lead eventually to a peace treaty.

He said Israel will never allow the guerrilla organizations to participate in the Middle East peace talks in Geneva, scheduled to resume this summer.

The 52-year-old Rabin, a former ambassador to Washington, said, "Only when we are really convinced that Egypt and Syria are intent on full observance of the separation of forces agreements will the chances for continued dialogue towards peace increase."

He added, "Our policy is clear. We prefer peace to new military victories, a stable peace, a just peace, an honorable peace, but not peace at any price."

The next step toward peace, Rabin said, was a settlement with Egypt and then, if feasible, Syria. He offered peace talks with Jordan and warned Israel's fourth Arab neighbor, Lebanon, that it would be held responsible for guerrilla attacks from its territory, whose aim was, he said, "to destroy the state of Israel."

"Let the terrorists and their leaders know that this goal will not be attained, that the IDF (Israel Defense Forces) has the strength and vigor to take bold and systematic measures against the terrorist organizations at any time or place," he said.

ROCKET BARRAGE

Parents, relatives and townspeople gather around the bodies of young victims killed by Communist rocket fire in Bien Hoa, South Vietnam on Monday. Communist gunners poured 30 rounds of Soviet and Chinese made rockets into the city just 14 miles northeast of Saigon, the country's capitol.

More than 100 killed or wounded

Rockets shatter Bien Hoa

SAIGON (UPI) — A barrage of 42 rockets crashed into the city of Bien Hoa 14 miles northeast of Saigon and hit a nearby air base and political prison today killing and wounding more persons than any Saigon-area attack since the Vietnam cease-fire, the Saigon military command said.

UPI Correspondent Nguyen Anh Tuyet reported from the scene that the barrage killed 31 persons and wounded 82 others, 65 of them civilians and 17 military personnel.

One rocket fell into Tan Hiep, a camp for pro-Communist civilians, and killed 18 women and wounded 55 others. The six-foot Soviet-made 122mm weapon exploded in a packed dormitory where 93 female prisoners spent the night on straw mats on the floor, prison director Bui Minh Tam said.

Tam said the rocket was the last in the barrage. Another hit the camp perimeter and caused no damage, he said. He said the evacuation was done by flashlight because of the darkness and the direct telephone line with the hospital was cut.

It was the deadliest Communist attack against a government residential area since the cease-fire. A single 82mm mortar killed 30 school children March 9 in Cai Lay, 45 miles southwest of Saigon.

Other rockets also slammed into Bien Hoa airfield today and blew up 400 cannisters of napalm and damaged one of the bases twin 10,000-foot runways, base officers said. But the shelling did not curtail government warplanes conducting airstrikes against suspected Communist positions.

In Paris, the South Vietnamese delegation to political talks with the Viet Cong protested what it called the "savage and barbarous" bombardment of Bien Hoa.

Nation's governors mull aftermath of Watergate

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The nation's governors, whose collective political influence seldom comes together on the same cause, moved today toward approval of a strong resolution on the volatile question of what to do after Watergate.

As about 45 chief state executives gather for the 1974 National Governors Conference here, a campaign was generating suppor for a powerful specific statement on rooting corruption out of government.

Gov. Dan Evans of Washington, host and national chairman of the group, keynoted the meeting with a direct challenge to the federal government. The states, he said, had taken "decisive action in contrast to that of the national government" in fields such as political ethics, campaign reform, consumer protection and no-fault insurance.

"It has been the states who have responded most fully to the problems of the day," he said. "This has been a response not in terms of empty rhetoric without action or visionary promises without dollars. It has been a response which has required executive and legislative courage, sound fiscal management plus a willingness to act."

The first obstacle to putting the conferences on record with a formal government ethics resolution was passed Sunday. The group's executive committee —seven of nine members attending —unanimously approved a statement proposed by Republican Gov. William Milliken of Michigan and Democrat Patrick Lucey of Wisconsin which called "the fight to restore citizen confidence in government" the "first obligation of every government official."

The resolution, which will be debated and acted upon Wednesday, urges "all levels of government" to ensure "loophole-free" campaign finance regulations, with limits on contributions and spending; "stringent ethical codes for government officials which clearly define conflict of interest;" an end to secrecy in government with few exceptions; and "registration and full disclosure of lobbying activities by all special interest groups."

Approval of the resolution was considered likely because more than 40 states have approved anticorruption legislation of carying strength in the past year. Thus the governors would not be criticizing themselves and their legislatures.

However, the resolution could be taken as a message aimed at Congress, where the Senate has passed two campaign finance reform bills since last fall but the House has failed to act.

The Milliken-Lucey proposal has one controversial element, calling for "experiments in public campaign financing" — an approach opposed by President Nixon and some House Democratic leaders.

But some states have moved into this area along with other campaign reforms, and the suggestion for "experiments" in public financing of campaigns might be acceptable to the governors, whose party line split now is 32 Democrats and 18 Republicans.

There was a lobbying campaign under way on behalf of the resolution, with officials of Common Cause, the national citizens action group, seeking votes for it.

The mood of the governors arriving in Seattle did seem to favor a strong ethics stand. All six governors who appeared on a preconference national television interview Sunday said they believed Nixon should turn over the White House tapes being demanded by special prosecutor Leon Jaworski. Several governors called for an end to preoccupation with Watergate in favor of confronting other pressing problems of the nation.

Gov. Daniel Walker of Illinois, a Democrat, listed the three most important of those problems as integrity, inflation and energy.

Pomonan dies of suspected drug overdose

POMONA — A 20-year-old man died early Sunday morning, police reported.

The victim, John L. Nickerson, 425 W. Center St., was pronounced dead on arrival at Pomona Valley Community Hospital shortly before 7 a.m.

The young man's father, Elmer Nickerson, told police that his son arrived home at between 3 and 4 a.m. and slumped at a table. Believing his son had been drinking, Nickerson placed a pillow under his head and left him to "sleep it off."

Later, when he heard the victim vomiting, he called an ambulance. Police said that when they arrived the young man had a weak, shallow pulse.

An autopsy was ordered to determine the cause of death.

County inmates to cast ballots

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Some 348 county jail and correctional facility inmates will cast absentee ballots in Tuesday's primary election, it was announced Sunday.

Sheriff Peter Pitchess said deputy recorder-registrars are regstering the inmates. Those allowed to vote are persons convicted of misdemeanors or awaiting trial on either misdemeanor or felony charges.

Some convicted felons temporarily lose their voting rights.

San Bernardino teachers receive 8% pay increase

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI) — Teachers were expected to return to their classrooms today after the board of Education granted them an eight per cent wage increase.

The San Bernardino Teacher's Association had asked for an 11.5 per cent increase and several hundred teachers stayed off the job Friday in support of the union's demands.

Ronald McPeck, president of the SBTA, said the teachers would return to work today but will continue to negotiate for the additional 3.5 per cent.

Narcotics raid nets four men

ONTARIO — A joint narcotics operation by five police agencies in two states culminated late Saturday night in the arrest of four men on charges of conspiracy to sell 500,000 amphetamine tablets and conspiracy to commit armed robbery.

The arrests were made at the Holiday Inn here after officers on a 24-hour surveillance of the suspects warned undercover officers that the suspects had armed themselves prior to the arranged meeting where the amphetamine tablets were to be delivered.

Those arrested, said sheriff's deputies, were David Lee Latimer, 23, of Colorado Springs, Colo., Robert Daniel Garstka, 23, of Riverside, Ronald Harold Pierce, 38, of 5347 Clara St., Covina, and Charles Hugh Finelli, 26, of 1154 Fifth St., Norco.

The operation began when officers from the Southern Colorado Drug Control Office set up an undercover purchase of $20,000 worth of amphetamines from the suspects, with delivery to be made in the San Bernardino-Riverside area.

Several locations in the two counties were kept under surveillance and finally led to the Ontario motel.

When the suspects were discovered arming themselves, the operation was ended before the purchase was made for the safety of the undercover officers. Officials believe that the suspects intended to rob the undercover officers.

A small quantity of amphetmaines and marijuana were confiscated from the suspects. Each was held on $100,000 bail.

Taking part in the operation, besides the Colorado officers and San Bernardino sheriff's deputies, were the Ontario and Riverside police departments and the Riverside Narcotics Task Force.

Mrs. Hearst returns

BOROUGH, Calif. (UPI) — Catherine Hearst, apparently helped by four days of respite from the nearly four-month-old drama of her kidnaped daughter Patricia Hearst, has returned to her family home.

"The rest did her good," said husband Randolph A. Hearst Sunday as he welcomed his wife from her hospital stay.

Mrs. Hearst, who re-entered the mansion without speaking to reporters outside, wore an impeccable dark dress and she had a new cast on her right wrist. She broke it in a fall the same day Los Angeles police surrounded the house and killed six persons suspected of kidnaping her 20-year-old daughter.

The bone in Mrs. Hearst's wrist was reset Wednesday at nearby Mills Memorial Hospital, Hearst said. Doctors had her stay for a rest.

MS. fights censor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Feminist and MS. magazine founder Gloria Steinem says she can't understand why a handful of Bennington, Vt., school officials want to ban her magazine from the high school's library.

"The purpose of MS. magazine is to allow women of all ages to tell the truth about their lives —the whole, joyful, sad, serious, funny and beautifully diverse truth," Ms. Steinem said in a weekend statement. "What is it about this truth that a handful of Vermont school officials and parents find threatening enough to suppress?"

The Mt. Anthony Union High School Board was expected to reach a decision over censorship of the magazine at a meeting called for Tuesday.

Onassis seeks help

ATHENS (UPI) — Aristotle Onassis has given the government of Greece a choice: cover the losses of his Olympic Airways, the national carrier, or take it over, according to weekend press reports. Newspapers said the government has yet to reach a decision.

Onassis reportedly asked that the government start covering his losses as of June 1 in anticipation of a $30 million to $40 million deficit this year. Earlier this year, the government refused an Onassis request for special treatment for Olympic on fuel supplies and bank credits.

Criticize amendment

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., would never have voted for the 25th Amendment to the Constitution regarding selection of a vice president if he had known Watergate was coming.

"It's entirely possible that within a year we will have a president and vice president, neither of whom have been elected by the people and neither of whom have been approved by their political party," Mondale said Saturday.

If President Nixon were impeached or resigned, Vice President Gerald Ford would become President, and under the 25th Amendment, could pick his own vice president, said Mondale, whose name has figured in speculation about the 1976 presidential race. He said he now believes that the choice of a vice presidential candidate should be made by political parties.

Ford feels ready

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vice President Gerald Ford thinks he could be a "good President," Time magazine reports.

In an interview last week in Charlotte, N.C., during which Ford reiterated his usual disclaimers about not planning or wanting to be president, Time quotes him as saying, "I see no reason why I should not be a good president ....

"If should find myself in that job some day, I feel prepared. I've worked at it. I've got friends, Republicans and Democrats, who would be helpful. I know the policies I believe in would be sound."

Chou En-lai active

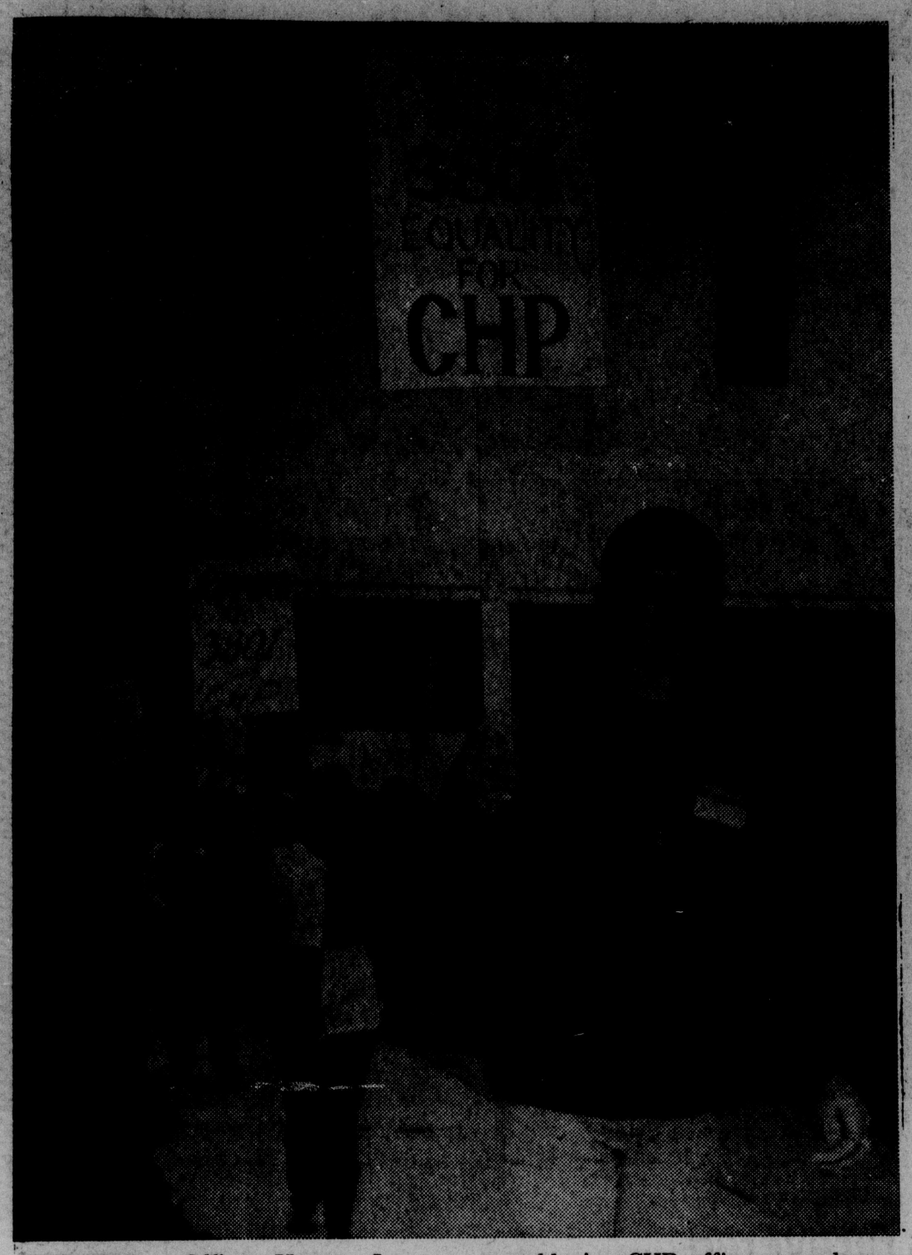
HONG KONG (UPI) — Former British Prime Minister Edward Heath, back from a visit to China, says Premier Chou En-lai is alert and active, but slowing down because of age.

"I thought he was very alert, very well informed and absolutely on the ball," Heath said during a news conference Sunday. "He didn't seem to be tired and he seemd very relaxed."

Retail clerks, food trade reach accord

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Southern California Retail Clerks Union and the food industry have reached a tentative agreement on a wage settlement, it was announced today.

A spokesman for the union said details of the settlement would be withheld until the nine Southern California locals, representing about 54,000 retail clerks, could vote on the package.



PICKETS — Officer Harvey Lane leads a group of off-duty California Highway Patrol officers and wives in a demonstration this morning in front of the Claremont CHP office. They walked from 7:30 to 11 a.m. in support of Assembly Bill 3801, now in committee in Sacramento, which would give CHP officers equal pay with officers in major California cities. Edwin Collins, area representative for the California Association of Highway Patrolmen, said the statewide march was to inform the public of low CHP pay.

Man, surrounded by police, kills self

POMONA — A 60-year-old man shot himself to death here Sunday night while police surrounded his house trailer, preparing to fill it with tear gas.

The victim, Donald D. Banker, who lived at the Thunderbird Trailer Park at 1761 E. Mission Blvd., was found dead in his trailer after police heard a muffled gunshot inside.

Officers Walter Barkley and Archie Johnson forced their way inside and found Banker dead of a bullet wound in the left temple. A short-barreled .38-caliber revolver lay nearby.

Investigators gave this account of the incident:

Officers were sent to the trailer park in response to a complaint of shots fired by a man with a gun. When they arrived shortly after 6 o'clock they found barber inside the trailer, refusing to come out. They were told by Jean Louise Le Melle, 64, who lived with Barber, that he became upset late that morning and forced her to give him the pistol she had hidden earlier. She said Barber had fired shots on several occasions, attempting to frighten her, so she had taken the revolver and hidden it.

She said that when she gave Barber the revolver, he fired several shots in the bedroom walls and she left. Police were called.

Later after the 40 by 11-foot trailer was surrounded, Johnson called to Barber and told him to come out. Barber replied, "Come on in and I'll blow you up too."

Tear gas was called for and Barber was warned that it was going to be used. He left the area of the trailer where officers could see him and disappeared into a hallway. A few seconds later the muffled report was heard.

Officers said that blankets found near the body bore powder burns, indicating they had been wrapped around the revolver to deaden the report. No reason for Barber's action was advanved, but police were told he had been under a doctor's care.

Investigation later inside the trailer showed that five shots had been fired into bedroom walls.

Woman killed in Claremont crash

CLAREMONT— An elderly woman was killed Saturday evening when her car was struck broadside by one of two cars drag racing in Claremont Boulevard, police said.

The victim, Edith Elser Harrison, 82, 836 W. Butte Ave., was pronounced dead on arrival at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. She had head injuries.

The driver of the car which struck hers. Bruce Alan Banker, 18, 5506 Harvard Ave., Montclair, also suffered head injuries and was reported in good condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The passenger in Banker's car, 17-year-old-Melissa M. Dawson, 9778 Columbine St., Montclair was reported in fair condition today in San Dimas Community Hospital's intensive care unit.

Police reported that Banker and Terry M. Chambers, 19, 1018 Sacramento St., Ontario, were racing south in Claremont Boulevard when Banker's car hit the victim's as she was turning left into Ninth Street.

The impact carried both cars spinning into a field at the southwest corner of the intersection.

Police today said they planned to consult with the district attbrney's office about the possibility of a complaint against Banker.

There were no arrests made.

Walnut will mull budget for schools

WALNUT — A second preliminary budget for 1974-75 will be presented to the Walnut school board at tonight's meeting.

George Hartnett, assistant superintendent for fiscal and facilities management, is expected to present a $6.1 million proposal fiscal plan at the 7:30 meeting in Walnut High School's multipurpose room.

Also on the agenda is possible approval of a new salary schedule for administrators and other management personnel.

Trustees in addition will consider second reading and final approval of various fringe benefits for teachers, who recently received a 6 per cent salary boost; final approval of an affirmative action policy; a progress report on Del Paso Continuation High School, and a K-6 school site. selection in Diamond Bar.

Bird population study under way

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon State University zoologist Dr. John A. Wiens is heading a research program to develop methods of preserving and managing beneficial bird populations, and controlling those considered damaging pests.

The project has produced a computer simulation model to analyze and estimate changes in bird population density and energy demands of bird populations. The computer model also is being used to estimate fish consumption by seabirds along the Oregon coast.

Woman cut in bar dispute

UPLAND — An argument between two women in a local tavern turned into a broken-glass slashing incident early Sunday morning. One of the women required 32 stitches to her face.

According to sheriff's deputies, Lynda Ellen Wyatt, no age listed, of 667 W. Princeton St., Ontario, and Rosanne Marie Serna, 22, of 634 Fairwood Way, Upland, were seated together in the rear of Club 66 about 1:30 a.m. when an argument began.

Miss Serna allegedly lunged at her companion with a broken glass, cutting her face.

Miss Wyatt was treated at San Antonio Community Hospital while Miss Serna was arrested on suspciion of assault with a deadly weapon.

Thrill ride goes awry; two hurt

ALTA LOMA — Two youths were injured late Saturday night when a thrill ride at a church carnival here fell apart.

The two youngsters, Lisa D. Mandelin, 12, of 6315 Opal St. and Michael H. Swain, 14, of 9111 Garden St., received lacerations and bruises. Both were treated at San Antonio Community Hospital and released.

The pair were on the Octopus Ride at St. Peter and St. Paul Catholic Church when the ride lost its safety pin, said sheriffs deputies.

The chairs on the ride fell from a height of about 15 feet and were dragged along the ground for about 20 feet, leaving deep gouges in the ground.

Two injured in Ontario crash

ONTARIO — A collision on Mission Boulevard this morning injured a 61-year-old motorist and an Ontario city street worker who was thrown from the back of a truck painting stripes on the roadway.

According to police, the car of Robert W. Gunter, 61, of 805 La Paloma, Ontario, slammed into the rear end of the city truck at about 50 miles per hour. City employe Roger A. Cortez, 25, of 1711 E. Yale St., who was riding on the back of the slow moving truck, was thrown to the pavement by the force of the collision.

Gunter was placed under arrest for felony drunk driving.

Both men were taken to San Antonio Community Hospital where they are in the intensive care unit.

Anaheim woman hurt in mishap

SAN DIMAS — A 28-year-old Anaheim woman, injured Sunday afternoon in an accident on Kellogg Hill, today is in fair condition in the intensive care unit at Covina Inter-Community Hospital.

She is Kahoka Hira. She is being treated for concussion and lacerations around her right eye.

Patrolmen said the woman was westbound with a load of rocks when the accident happened about 2:45 p.m. on the San Bernardino Freeway east of Via Verde Avenue.

Three passengers in the truck also were taken to the hospital. They were Nobuya Kinya Hira, 37, who was treated and released; Mayako Hira, 4, who required no treatment; and Kayako Hira, 2, who was treated and released.

Hafif closing drive on TV

LOS ANGELES — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Herb Hafif will close out his campaign for the party's nomination tonight with a 30-minute prime time television program.

The show will be broadcast on Channel 5 beginning at 8 p.m.

"We're putting our limited funds into this telecast which has an anticipated audience of over one million adult viewers," said Hafif, Claremont attorney.

Despite trailing badly in recent polls, Hafif maintains that most California Democrats haven't made up their minds.

"If anybody in this election feels deeply committed to Brown, Alioto, or Moretti, I've yet to meet them in my travels around the state," he continued.

Trash to be used to make electricity

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Virtually all St. Louis area trash will be burned to generate electricity by mid-1977 under plans announced by Union Electric Co.

A $70 million plant will burn solid waste, eliminate the need for landfills and generate about 6 per cent of its power from the burning.

CHEMICAL EXPLOSION — Fire crews in Scunthorpe, England fight the burning chemical works which exploded near the northeast English town, killing and injuring over 100 persons last Saturday.

Eight bodies recovered

British plant still burning

SCUNTHORPE, England (UPI) — Firemen battled stubborn flames licking the wreckage of a northern England chemical plant today and searched through the blackened debris for workers trapped by a thunderous explosion.

Authorities said Sunday night they had recovered eight bodies from the rubble of the Nypro (UK) Ltd. plant in nearby Flixborough, 160 miles northeast of London. Another 21 persons were missing and presumed dead.

A total of 105 persons were reported injured Saturday when the massive explosion rocked the plant, damaging buildings in a 10-mile-wide area and sending up a 300-foot sheet of flame and a mile-high cloud of toxic gas.

At the time of the explosion, 70 men were in the Dutch-British owned plant, which made chemicals for the manufature of nylon. The blast damaged every home in Flixborough, a town with 310 residents.

Police said the death toll would have been much higher had the factory been ringed by homes, as is the case with many other British chemical plants.

Gordon Oakes, undersecretary in the environment ministry, said a check was being made of chemical plants through the country.

"Dangerous processes and homes must be kept well apart," Oakes said.

Most of the 3,000 residents of seven neighboring villages returned home Sunday after being evacuated because of toxic gas.

"It was like a mini A-bomb," said Clifford Purves, who was in his auto two miles from the blast. "The fireball burned the paint off my car."

"Suddenly I started going round and round in the air, tossed here and there in pitch blackness," said Barry Carter, 27, a draftsman at his desk when the explosion occurred. "I thought this was what dying was all about."

"The next thing I knew I looked up and could see the sky and debris falling all over the place. The roof had caved in. It was like night because of the dust. The heat was tremendous, it scorched my face," he said.

Huub Beckers, the plant's general manager, said as much as 270,000 gallons of a highly inflammable liquid could have been stored there.

"Only a spark would have been enough to have set it off," he said.

Plans to start for Nixon Mideast trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A team of presidential advance men and security agents leaves for the Middle East today to prepare for President Nixon's journey to the now peaceful area later this month.

Possible stopping points for Nixon include Cairo and Yalta, names that evoke to many Americans World War II era summit meetings.

Nixon spent Sunday at Camp David, Md., studying the preliminary plans for his trips to the Middle East and Moscow.

He will probably announce his itinerary some time this week.

Nixon's visit to the region is expected to come before the Moscow summit, which begins June 27.

His first expected stop in the Mediterranean area is Cairo. Nixon is also planning to go to Israel, Jordan, Saudi Arabia and possibly Iran and Syria.

It would be the first time an American president has been in Egypt since Franklin D. Roosevelt attended the Cairo Big Three meeting with Winston Churchill and Chiang Kai-Shek during World War II.

Nixon's third round of summit talks with Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev is expected to center on expanding the spirit of detente, with the possibility an agreement will be reached on limiting underground nuclear tests. An understanding covering offensive nuclear weapons appears less likely, but has not been ruled out.

Pete VanderPoel speaks out:

CRIME. The rising crime rate and violence in our communities is alarming! Too many parolled felons return to a life of crime because our prisons have failed to rehabilitate them. Our present system of justice often works to protect the criminal instead of the law abiding citizen.

WELFARE. Welfare programs should be available to those who truly need welfare but should not be a giveaway plan for those who do not want to work or for families who want to make a career out of living free at the expense of the California taxpayer.

COST OF LIVING. The increasing cost of living is of grave concern to all of us. I am particularly concerned about the senior citizens who are forced to live on fixed incomes . . . legislators must seek ways to reduce government spending to hold down inflation.

Their numbers ever dwindling

Decline of priests worrying Vatican

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The dwindling supply of new priests continues to worry the Roman Catholic Church, caught between its unbending insistence on celibacy and the attractions of modern secular life.

A recently published Vatican report on the Holy See's activities during 1973 said only 3,009 new priests were ordained, 196 fewer than in 1972. Deaths of priests in 1973 totalled 4,025.

The report said there were 343,329 priests around the world, 2,907 less than in 1972. The number of diocesan priests fell by 3,291 to 229,061 although the number belonging to religious orders rose by 384 to 114,268.

The 975-page document gave no figures for what it called the "serious phenomenon" of dropout priests but said "the always remarkable number of demands reported this year showed a slight decline while there was a rise in requests for reinstatement by priests already given dispensations who wished to return."

The Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith is "closely examining the causes of the phenomenon and particularly the problem of making prudent choices of future priesthood candidates," the report said.

Vocations Shrink

In 1972 there was one priest per 1,596 Catholics as against one per 1,535 in 1970, the report said. It said the number of active seminaries in 1973 dropped by 45 to 1,187.

"The priesthood problem is strongly influenced by the restlessness diffused today throughout the entire Church," the report said. "As in past years there was observed ferment in the clergy and above all the progressive shrinkage in (priesthood) vocations."

It also said "there are signs of a cheering revival at the level of individual dioceses and also in some nations. The period of uncertainty, teaching experiments and searching during the eight years since Vatican Council II is past, giving room to serious reflection."

Despite such optimism, Vatican officials do not mask their concern over the lessening number of new priests. Vatican sources said Pope Paul VI and members of the Roman Curia— the Vatican "cabinet"—late last year received a confidental report warning that the dawn of the 21st Century would see a Church nearly devoid of priests unless the current trend is reversed.

Officials of the Congregation for the Religious have been quoted as saying a constant reserve of 60,000 novices would be needed to meet the future call for priests.

Priests are people

Vatican officials consider aversion to celibacy the biggest cause of flights from the priesthood but some clergy think the problem is more deeply rooted. They have suggested many priests rebel at having their individual thinking made subservient to that of the local bishop. They also mention the lack of a precisely defined role for many priests.

Why little girls skip role: a universal message

STORRS, Conn. (UPI) — A University of Connecticut English professor has found a mystical turn in the child's game of jump rope.

When a little girl skips rope to the chant of Teddy Bear, Teddy Bear, Turn Around, she is spinning a magic circle around her that will protect her from evil, according to legend.

Jumping rope has a universal message—it is a symbolic preparation for life, says Dr. Francelia Butler.

"When you turn the rope you make the rope turn an invisible circle that wards off evil—it's like magic," Mrs. Butler said. "Within the circle you rehearse different roles in life.

"If you get through the exercises, you can get through life—you can make it in adult life. If you break the circle, you let in evil."

When you are safely encased in the sanctuary of the globe turning around you, she said, you are safe.

Mrs. Butler, a widow and an authority on children's literature, will spend the summer in Asia to study cultural influences on the age-old children's pastime of rope-skipping. She plans to visit villages in Taiwan, Hong Kong, Laos, Thailand, Malaysia, Vietnam, India and Japan.

"All you have to do is hand a rope to a child and she begins to skip," she said. "You don't have to speak the language."

The universal language of jumping rope shows up in rhymes such as the Teddy Bear chant which is found translated into many languages around the world, she said. Another popular rhyme gives a girl a chance to dream about the man she may one day marry—rich man, poor man, beggar man thief...doctor, lawyer, merhant chief.

And the name that she trips up on, according to the legend will be the man she marries. If she keeps on going and doesn't stumble, she may end up a spinster.

For Tuesday, June 4

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't try to cover up or rationalize your mistakes. Nothing will be gained personally if you take a stand on a hopeless position.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your business affairs are likely to be complex and jumbled at present. It could be due to an unrealistic outlook.

GEMINI (May 21-June 30) You wouldn't be wise to be your own "attorney" if you're involved in some sort of legal matter at this time. Get expert advice.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try not to make any commitments regarding work or service that you don't have the competency to perform. Bluffs won't work.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The big-shot role will prove to be a very expensive one today. Just be yourself . . . others will still be impressed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're apt to base an important judgment on inaccurate information. Be certain of all the facts before saying "yes" to anything.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today you'll look for easy outs. You'll promise things you will have trouble delivering later just so others will think you're a nice guy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're not the shrewd buyer you usually are. You could easily be taken in, and purchase merchandise of inferior quality.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're assuming that others are as sincere as you are about keeping their promises. They're not. Get it in writing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) At present, you're apt to rely more heavily on your hunches and intuition whan you should. Stick with what you see, not with what you feel.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're not likely to be moderate or prudent regarding your social interests. Waste or overindulgence has the upper hand.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be very careful today that you don't do anything that would reflect unfavorably on your honor or reputation.

Important goals can be realized this year if you don't take things for granted. Even if something is handed to you, be sure you make the most of it.

The doctor comments

Relief from 'gas' problems sought

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Energy crisis or no, there seems to be no "gas" shortage among us older folks! We go on having "gas" trouble for lack of a reliable way to prevent or get quick relief. Your view on the subject would be welcome.

I, myself, have suffered from what has been diagnosed as spastic colon. A blank, low-roughage diet and anti-spasmodic medications have been the main control with less than satisfactory results. There is a side effect that I have not been able to impress my doctor sufficiently with. The gas attacks occur usually at night, the pressure increases and it has a marked effect on the heart.

The pulse rate, normally around 64, becomes highly erratic and speeds up to 90 to 120 while at the same time a completely debilitating weakness overtakes me. Urination, ordinarily once a night or none, becomes very urgent and a total of two quarts may be voided during the next few hours. The walk to the bathroom becomes a herculean task and leaves me weak and faint.

What can we oldsters do to prevent gas attacks, and what can be done for reasonably prompt relief?

DEAR READER — This is a common complaint and it can cause a severe discomfort, as you know. I suspect your heart irregularities are indeed caused by the gas. You are describing an impending faint. These can be induced by pain from any source. In this instance your pain is caused by distension and spasm in your colon.

Anyone who has excessive gas problems should have a good medical examination. The examination may pinpoint the basic underlying medical problem as it has in your case with your problem of spastic colon.

The anti-spasmodics you are taking are important in severe cases. Not all doctors would agree with your diet, however. In more recent years the tendency has been to give people with spastic colon problems a diet containing lots of roughage. The colon is a muscular tube. It has to have enough bulk to contract against to have normal, rthythmic contractions without cramps or spasms. Specifically, the diet should include cereal fiber. You get this from real whole wheat bread and whole grain cereals. Use plenty of leafy vegetables and salads.

To help control the gas problem one should eliminate coffee in all its forms, including all the decaffeinated products. The flavor oils alone are irritating to the colon. Tea and colas should also be eliminated. Eliminate alcohol, at least until the gas and colon problems are completely under control.

Oswald: "Clubs don't break; diamonds don't break, the heart finesse is wrong and a careless declarer might actually get set at six notrump."

Jim "He shouldn't be. There is a very simple end play to bring home twelve tricks."

Oswald: "South starts by cashing three diamonds. Then he runs off four spades while discarding a diamond from his hand. Next come three rounds of clubs. At this time West is known to be holding one diamond and two hearts. South throws West in with dummy's last diamond and West has to lead a heart to give South the last two tricks."

World record holder's back in court again

LEEDS, England (UPI) — World record holder George Linstrum has landed in court again, boosting his total appearances to 592, court officials said.

Take 2 years of Army before college.

Many high school graduates are ready to take full advantage of college this fall. But some could use a little time to mature, or to straighten out their finances, or just to take a break from the books for a while.

Whatever the reason, if you think you'd get more out of college a couple of years from now, we'd like you to consider the benefits of 2 years in today's Army.

Guaranteed job-training or duty in Europe.

With our 2-year enlistment, you can choose from a wide range of job-training courses, and if you qualify, have that training guaranteed in writing before you enlist.

Or, you can serve in Europe. Either way, you get the same benefits as a longer enlistment. Including a starting salary of $326.10 a month before deductions, with a raise to $363.30 in just four months.

Enlist now, go 6 months later.

With the Army's Delayed Entry Option, you can enlist today, and not have to report for up to six months, depending on the job-training you sign up for.

Should you decide to try college while you're still in the Army, you can attend classes right on post or at a nearby college. With the Army paying at least 75% of your tuition costs.

And when your enlistment's over, you can receive up to 36 months of financial assistance at the college of your choice.

Call your Army Representative at 800-523-4800.

MOBILE REPAIR SHOP — This "mobile pit stop" designed to cut repair and maintenance costs on postal service vehicles was unveiled recently in San Francisco. Take your garbage home

Some campgrounds will feature 'the clean look' this summer

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The bears may not like it, but the U.S. Forest Service plans to operate public campgrounds in three Cascade Mountain ranger districts without garbage cans this summer.

Instead, the service is going to rely on the camping public's cooperation to "sack it up—pack it home." The system worked in one district last summer and saved $4,500, which was put into improving the campgrounds.

And if the system continues to work as well as expected, it may be expanded nationwide for a saving of millions of dollars which can be spent improving recreation facilities in all the forests.

Last year, the program was put into effect in the Monte Cristo district northeast of here where 400 to 600 cans of garbage a week previously had to be hauled many miles in Forest Service trucks to a dump.

"It was a chancy move," explained John Geyer, district recreation assistant, "but it worked. Costs of collection and hauling were running as high as $9,000 a year. We thought this money could be much better spent maintaining and improving facilites."

Consequently, a campaign was undertaken to persuade campers to pack their garbage out of the forest.

After announcement of the plan was made in the news media, the garbage cans in the Monte Cristo district were removed and signs were put up in their place. The signs urged campers to "sack it up—pack it home—recycle it."

"Most campers were pleased to be able to participate in solving the problem," Geyer said. "Even when some did leave a mess, other campers usually cleaned it up."

The program cut garbage handling costs for the season in half and the saving was put to other use.

Officials of the newly consolidated Mt. Baker-Snoqualmie National Forest decided to extend the garbage disposal program this summer to the North Bend and Lake Wenatchee districts, although cans will be left at the large Glacier View campsite in the latter district.

And in the Monte Cristo district this summer, rangers will supplement the program by enlisting the children in camping families to pick up litter. Foresters will visit the campgrounds at intervals, organize the children on the scene as clean-up crews and give out Smokey Bear and Woodsy Owl emblems as prizes for full litter sacks.

Geyer also said that garbage and litter consciousness has paid unexpected dividends.

"We experienced a 60 per cent decrease in vandalism as people got involved," he explained. "And there was an increase in volunteer work projects as well."

Israel mulls plan to reap riches from desert

LONDON (UPI) — Israel is studying a plan which its originator says would transform the so-called Arava areas, the desert between the Red Sea and the Dead Sea, into a huge agricultural-industrial complex.

Prof. Joseph Gillis of the Weizmann Institute mentioned the plan in a lecture with a theme saying scientific education is the most profitable investment any society can make because it produces a literate citizenry and a government better able to assess new ideas.

"The beginnings of a scientifically intelligent population can now be clearly seen in Israel," Gillis said. He mentioned interest in two proposed projects to buttress that belief, the Vofsi plan and Cargo City.

The Vofsi plan calls for using brine from the Dea Sea as the starting point of a huge chemical industry. Then, when a water desalination plant is built, "the most intensive agriculture the world has yet seen would become possible," Gillis said.

"Crops would be grown under vast plastic greenhouses in an atmosphere enriched with carbon dioxide, a cheap by-product of the new chemical industry.

"Three or four harvests would be normal each year.

"At present the Arava region is the natural demarcation between Jordan and Israel. The Vofsi plan foresees that the Jordanian areas of the Arava could be developed for the resettlement of large numbers of Arab refugees. They could find plentiful employment in the agro-industrial complex by using efficient transport for daily commuting."

But he said "unless you have a population to whom such plans can be explained and a government capable of appreciating them, the necessary action will inevitably lag or fail."

Cargo City was proposed by an American businessman, who said his plan required a country centrally situated in relation to the world's population with seaports facing east, south and west, with a fair amount of unused land and a scientifically sophisticated population.

"These constraints seemed to limit the possibility to Israel," Gillis said. "The basic idea of the plan is that the producers of raw materials—tea from Ceylon, wool from Australia, rubber from Malaysia or whisky from Scotland—should not themselves be responsible for the marketing of their materials but ship them in containers to Cargo City to await the best possible world market for their sale."

Israel was so impressed by the report of a small expert committee which studied the plan that it set aside a few hundred acres near a major seaport for a pilot scheme but the Oct. 1973 war interrupted the operation.

Strangely worded law gives top brass pay hike; cut for privates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon, which has enjoyed whopping pay increases in recent years, is now asking Congress to lower military pay scales under a budget-cutting reform that would still let top ranking generals get a slight pay boost.

Lt. Gen. Leo E. Benade, deputy assistant defense secretary for military personnel policy, told a House Armed Services subcommittee last week many servicemen were actually getting more money than the law intended just because the law was strangely worded.

Each October, government employees—civilian and military—get a raise designed to keep their pay scales in line with private businesss. The military boost is stuffed entirely into the basic pay category under the law rather than being spread out over the housing and food allowances as well, Benade said.

But half the military lives in government-supplied housing. Those men don't get housing allowances but still receive the basic pay increase, part of which is calculated from higher housing costs affecting civilians.

Benade proposed spreading the increase over all three pay catagories. Then the Pentagon would save an estimated $3 billion over five years partly by not having to pay so much more to those men who live in government housing.

But eyebrows were raised when committee members saw a chart showing that a four star general living in a civilian community would actually gain $463 a year while a private would lose $6 and major $61 a year. The figures were based on inflation remaining at the current high levels.

"I was afraid you'd notice that," Gen Benade said. He explained that the current law does not allow government employees, except for political appointees, to earn more than $36,000 a year.

Two, three and four star generals are up against that ceiling and would not normally get any pay raise. By shifting part of the annual raise to the allowances, which are exempt from the ceiling, the generals would effectively get a raise.

But 71 per cent of the two, three and four star generals live in government quarters and would receive only a $35 a year increase under the proposed change. The other ranks living in government quarters would lose from $76 a year for recruits up to $536 for one star generals.

The subcommittee chairman, Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., said the law was written too quickly. "But once you establish something it's difficult to take away. ...There's no doubt we're going to have political problems if we approve this thing."

You may never have noticed but the studio audience that watches the taping of most TV shows is usually hand picked for the show they are seeing.

Without careful control over the audience make-up, retired senior citizens would dominate studio audiences. These older folks are less apt to react with great enthusiasm to much current TV fare . . . neither do they inspire the performers. So, most producers leave nothing to chance. They pay professionals $1.00 a head to recruit as necessary to augment mailed ticket requests and provide exactly the kind of audience demanded by the show.

Doubts cast on Soviet sincerity in Mideast

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Parallel to the efforts of both the United States and Soviet Union to maintain at least the facade of new and friendly relations has been the obvious, and sometimes unfriendly, Soviet bird-dogging of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's peace efforts in the Middle East.

As Kissinger began his latest, and successful, effort to arrange a separation of forces between Israel and Syria, he prefaced it with an eight and a half hour meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in Geneva.

Out of that meeting came a joint statement agreeing to coordinate their efforts to achieve "a positive outcome" of the Middle East negotiations.

Other events cast doubt on the sincerity of Soviet "coordination."

The Soviets had made no secret of their unhappiness over the success of Kissinger's personal diplomacy in achieving a separation of forces agreenent between Israel and Egypt last January.

As Kissinger again applied his personal diplomacy in an attempt to win similar agreement between Israel and Syria in late February and early March, Gromyko followed close upon his heel in visits to Damascus and Cairo. In Damascus Gromyko declared:

"The opponents of a just and lasting peace both in Israel and beyond (an apparent reference to the United States) want to retain the Arab lands captured by them. In this they hope by means of various maneuvers and tricks they will manage to split the Arabs and their friends and allies."

It was at one and the same time an expression of long-time Soviet apprehensions and an outline of Soviet strategy to be used in succeeding weeks.

It was a fear that Arab nations might decide to follow their own paths toward Middle Eastern peace, thus forcing the Soviets to decide between them. It also was a reminder to the Arabs of the consistent support they had received from the Soviets in their wars with Israel, morally, economically and militarily.

In mid-April, when Syrian President Hafez Assad visited Moscow, Soviet party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev warned him against accepting an "ersatz" peace plotted by the United States and Israel.

In the last month, as Kissinger pursued his shuttle diplomacy between Israel and Syria, Gromyko returned twice to Damascus, interspersing the two visits with another meeting with Kissinger on the island of Cyprus.

Kissinger aides described its outcome as somewhere between being "unhelpful and helpful."

In the Middle East, the Soviets have a huge investment.

Debts owed to the Soviets by Egypt and Syria are believed to come to more than $30 billion. Iraq is said to be exporting 300,000 barrels of oil every day to the Soviet Union as partial payment for military aid.

Diplomatically, the Soviets have profited by the Arabs' single-minded enmity toward Israel. Total peace in the Middle East is not necessarily in their favor.

The way now seems open for definitive peace talks to begin in Geneva.

Survey notes simmering unrest among nation's young workers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sociologist and pollster Daniel Yankelovich, in a major survey of the attitudes of American youth has confirmed what a lot of commentators have suspected: The college campus is greening.

At the same time, however, Yankelovich pointed toward a new and potentially more explosive gap —that between working youth who have not gone to college and the country's social institutions.

During the late 1960s, when most of the media's attention was focused on the college campuses and student protests of an increasingly unpopular war, a small band of sociologists were looking at the American worker and discovered what they called the "blue collar blues."

After a brief spate of attention — congressional hearings, media coverage —the crisis of "worker alienation" was generally pronounced over and the commentators turned their attention elsewhere.

Yankelovich says it isn't so.

According to his survey, funded by five large foundations, noncollege youth "are just about where the college population was in 1969. ..."

That means, he said, that the country can expect "greater labor unrest and reduced work motivation among young workers unless new incentives to match the new youth values are discovered."

Nearly three years ago, researchers Harold L. Sheppard and Neal Q. Herrick concluded in their study "Where Have All the Robots Gone?" that the 22 million young workers under the age of 30 were "more dissatisfied, more oriented toward change, and have higher expectations of work than their older counterparts."

Speaking generally of dissatisfied workers, the two researchers said worker discontent "has many roots, but one of these is intimately tied to the very nature of their jobs. Employment experience, level of wages, and other working conditions naturally are critical elements. However, emphasis here goes beyond job security and income adequacy, and deals with work itself."

The latter survey showed that among noncollege youth, the belief that "hard work always pays off" fell from 79 per cent in 1969 to 56 per cent at the present time.

The explanation is not that young people are less willing to work hard, but that their incentives and what they want as a payoff have begun to change," the survey said.

"Like their college counterparts the desires of working class youth go beyond good pay and economic security," it added. Those desires, according to the Yankelovich survey, include "interesting work" and "self expression" and "self fulfillment."

"A majority of the noncollege youth take their ability to earn a good living for granted," the survey said, "but only a minority state that their present job gives them a chance to use their minds (38 per cent) or to develop their skills and abilities (33 per cent)."

The significance of the discontent was touched on in only the briefest and most generalized terms in the Yankelovich survey:

"If the new outlook on work is not recognized and responded to, the research suggests that young workers will 'turn off' in the future in unprecedented numbers."

The specific manifestation of that 'turn off' —wildcat striking, a turn toward demagoguery, or perhaps a decline in the quality of work —is as yet unspecific and unarticulated.

Here's what the press has to say about Supervisor Pete Schabarum:

"The Daily News advocates the reelection of Supervisor Schabarum, based on what he has accomplished in the time he has spent in office, on the improvements he proposes in county government, and on his consistent effort to limit if not reduce the cost of that government.

"This County's government is one whose expenditures each year run into the billions . . . it takes more than the ordinary kind of supervisor to oppose such increases and to keep on demanding, even at non-budget times, more efficiency and less of the waste inherent in such a huge organization."

The DAILY NEWS, 3/14/74

"Schabarum Rates Return . . . On the record we believe Schabarum deserves that support. During two years in office he has consistently voted for economy in government and has refused to be bulldozed by county government bureaucrats into abandoning his responsibility as a representative of the taxpaying electorate of this district.

"Schabarum has served his constituents conscientiously and well. We believe he should be retained."

DAILY TRIBUNE, 2/8/74

"Schabarum's case for reelection is open and shut. Based on his record of achievement and his value to the communities he serves, Pete is the man for the job . . .

"His personal qualities are well known. Schabarum has shown courage, dedication and determination on the athletic field, in the business world and in the tough arena of politics. Those qualities, along with a keen sense of timing, have brought him success in each phase of his life . . .

"One of the more remarkable qualities of Pete Schabarum is his ability to remain a 'common man' despite a record of personal success that would swell the head of a lesser man. His unaffected life style is a welcome trait, both in public and private."

THE SENTINEL, 2/21/74

"Supervisor Pete Schabarum has proved himself to be an able administrator of First District affairs during his first two years in office.

"He weathered his freshmen term in office with a poise that reflects his abiding care for good government and a driving desire to accomplish for his constituents . . .

"But more importantly, Supervisor Schabarum has been demonstrably frugal in guarding the purse strings. He has led the Board of Supervisors toward two successive cuts in the property tax rate totaling 57 cents . . .

"We believe in his conscientious and forthright stewardship. Supervisor Schabarum should be retained."

West Coast doing it

If you can't get ship in port, you send port to ship

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The West Coast, which has always boasted of its natural s aports, finds itself short changed by Mother Nature in the age of the supertanker.

With the exception of Valdez, Alaska, there's not a port on the coast, or in the continuous United States for that matter, deep enough for the tankers, many od them larger than 200,000 tons.

Standard Oil Co. of California theorizes if you can't bring the ship to the port, you bring the port to the ship.

Instead of pulling alongside a dock ashore, the giant vessels will tie up at a single mooring offshore and the oil will be pumped through hoses to land.

By this method, Standard hopes to turn tiny Morro Bay in San Luis Obispo County into the first supertanker port in the United States in 1977. The firm estimates that tankers up to 400,000 tons will be able to use the mooring buoy about three miles off Estero Point.

"The Estero Point area was selected because of water depth, weather and location," says Steve Knox, Standard's resident project supervisor at Morro Bay.

"At the three-mile mark, the water level is about 150 feet, sufficient for the huge ships."

Jules Mayer, the company's project manager at its world headquarters in San Francisco, said the pipeline principle is not new in California.

"Ships already load or unload through underwater pipelines at our facility at Estero," he said.

"The only difference in what we propose, from what we have been doing, is to move the offshore anchorage to deep water," he said.

Another difference is the use of a single buoy, allowing the supertanker to turn in the wind.

"The monobuoy design permits a ship to move freely aroand as winds and tides change," Mayer said. "There are about 100 of these monobuoys now in operation throughout the world."

The company faces a maze of permit hearings before it can get the supertanker port going. What will the alternatives be if the plans fall through?

"We could continue our present method," says Mayer.

This would involve bringing ships of 80,000 to 150,000 tons to the offshore moorings in El Segundo, in Southern California.

Half the cargo would be discharged at El Segundo and the rest brought to Richmond in San Francisco Bay.

"The draft of the half-loaded ships is such that they can pass through San Francisco Bay to reach our Richmond Long Wharf," he said.

"However, this imported crude can be delivered to California more economically and with less danger of accident if fewer but larger crude carriers (200,000 tons or more) are used," Mayer added.

Under the Morro Bay plan, the oil would still end up at refineries but via a pipeline instead of ship.

Another method was used when the supertanker E. Hornsby Wasson arrived off Southern California recently. Her cargo was pumped aboard smaller tankers as the vessels steamed along in an operation Standard says is far more expensive than direct discharge to shore.

The conservationists are relatively quiet about Standard's plans. But there will be many hearings before the facility becomes a reality.

"I know opposition will develop," says Connie Parrish, California representative for Friends of the Earth.

"We are watching this and will plan to do something when the matter comes up at hearings for permits."

What Miss Parrish feels is needed is a national and state policy regarding the supertankers and their ports.

"And if the company can prove that there is an economic need for the supertankers, then there should be a pilot project," she said, pointing out that supertanker terminals are planned in other regions.

Physicist criticizes Solzhenitsyn

MOSCOW (UPI) — Nuclear physicist Andrei D. Sakharov, one of the Soviet Union's leading dissidents, accused exiled author Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn today of making "potentially dangerous" proposals.

Sakharov, in a 3,500-word criticism of a letter Solzhenitsyn sent Kremlin leaders last year, attacked the "isolationist direction" and "religious patriarchal romanticism" of the exiled writer.

Sakharov said the "utopian and potentially dangerous" ideas of the writer, expelled from the Soviet Union Feb. 13, were marred by "very substantial errors."

The attack against Solzhenitsyn, currently living with his family in Switzerland, marked the most serious difference of opinion between the Soviet Union's two best-known dissenters.

"I am convinced that in reality the nationalist and isolationist direction of Solzhenitsyn's thinking, the religious patriarchal romanticism characteristic of him, leads him into very substantial errors and makes his proposals utopian and potentially dangerous," Sakharov said.

And making headway

He's waging war on traffic citations

HONOLULU (UPI) — Nobody likes getting traffic tickets, but Clarence Shak's reaction is extreme.

Through his three-year-old Justice for Motorists club, Shak hopes to fill the Honolulu traffic courts so full of contested tickets that they'll be jammed.

Eventually, he hopes to do the same all over the nation.

"The mechanics are the same everywhere," he said recently. "It's just a matter of getting organized."

Shak, 52, operates out of a one-room office resembling a political campaign headquarters. On the walls are posters, slogans, blow-ups of traffic citations and quotes from the law and the constitution. Vanquished tickets, yellow with age, are strung across the entryway like scalps from a lodgepole.

Shak, who holds a degree in electrical engineering, broke from his telephones, files and consultations to explain the club's purpose. "If traffic courts conformed to due process in the prosecution of motorists," he said, "the traffic citation system would have to be abandoned.

'Due process" is his touchstone. Shak explained, "A traffic citation is not a legal action in itself. It is a threat to have legal action initiated.

"When you pay a fine or a bail and forego your constitutional rights to due process, you are essentially paying a clerk somewhere to 'fix' your ticket.

"It's like protection money paid to a gangster," he said. "They tell you, 'pay this fine and we'll see to it that you don't get dragged into court.'"

One dollar buys lifetime membership in the club. Each member is entitled to legal representation by one of the two club attorneys.

At last count, there were 5,800 permanent members in the club. Shak said, "Our lawyers handle about 200 cases per month in court, averaging between five and 10 each day.'

He said the club wins "about 70 per cent" of the tickets brought to it.

He claims to have forced a number of changes on the courts.

"They eliminated jury trials in traffic cases," he said. "It was costing them too much, and they also eliminated appeals to circuit court. If they hadn't done that I would have wiped them out long ago. Now you have to appeal directly to the state supreme court and it costs about $200 per case."

He said, "I also made them change the wording on the citations themselves. It used to say 'summons' at the top, but now it says 'notice to appear.' I pointed out that no policeman is empowered to issue a summons. Only a judge can do that."

Shak himself boasts of one of the longest records on file with the traffic violations bureau. He said he has received "close to 100" citations in his life, contested all of them and won "about 60."

Shak bridled at any suggestion that he was a kind of highway anarchist. "I'm an engineer," he said, "and like any good engineer I design a replacement before I get rid of a system."

He said that present traffic control systems are basically inefficient. "You come to a red light at two or three in the morning' with no one around for miles, and you have to wait," he said. "It's ridiculous.

Pianist sets recital at Chaffey College

ALTA LOMA — Steve Laitz, staff accompanist for the Chaffey College Music Department, will present a recital in the Little Theater at noon Thursday.

The concert will mark the end of a series of recitals here by Laitz over the past three years, first as a student and then as an employe.

He is the recipient of a scholarship of about $1,100 at UC Riverside for the year ahead and plans to continue his studies there toward a degree in music.

Laitz will play Grieg's Sonata in E Minor, Opus 7, and Ravel's "Sonatine."

The pianist, a resident of Ontario, will close the program with a premier performance of William Sherwood's Eight Preludes for Piano.

Sherwood, a Pomonan, has been Laitz, music teacher for the past four years. According to Sherwood, his preludes were "conceived in terms of the indigenous possibilities of the piano and are intended to convey a somewhat improvisatory flavor."

Laitz is staff accompaniest for the Chaffey College Concert Ensemble Singers and the Concert Choir.

MUSICIANS HONORED — Mrs. Ward M. Turney, president of the Pomona Valley Musicians' Club, presents Honorary Membership Plaques to Loren Adair, the club's first president, and Alice Vincent, treasurer for 18 years. The ceremony at a recent meeting included awarding of a similar plaque to Dorothea Nelson who was unable to attend. Officers for the coming year were installed by Dr. Ralph Travis.

Musicians' Club honors three longtime members

LA VERNE — Honorary Membership Plaques in the Pomona Valley Musicians' Club were awarded to Loren Adair, Dorothea Nelson and Alice Vincent at the club's final meeting of the year at the La Verne Church of the Brethren recently.

Adair was a charter member and the first president. He has been active in musical circles for many years and has just completed 41 years as organist for Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona. He has also been organist at a number of churches. Mrs. Nelson who was unable to attend, has composed and published numerous compositions. Mrs. Vincent has served as club treasurer for 18 years.

The meeting was preceded by a potluck supper with the proceeds going to the John Child Walker Memorial Fund by which the club has sponsored musical talent competitions for young people for 14 years.

Dr. Ralph Travis installed officers for the coming year. They were Mrs. Ward M. Turney, president; Mrs. Melvin Pinner, first vice president; Mrs. Robert L. Keeler, second vice president; Miss Helen Gipson, recording secretary; Mrs. Josephine D'Auro, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Vincent, treasurer; Mrs. Violet Bouillon, parliamentarian; and Miss Elsie Comstock, historian.

Nothing like setting sale

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Who buys all the things that are sold at garage sales?

A fairly recent socio-economic activity of urban America, the garage (or yard) sale has swelled to endemic proportions in Southern California, and crudely lettered signs announcing backyard rummage sales appear each Saturday and Sunday with the regularity of the blossoms in spring.

There are so many of these suburban bazaars going on in Claremont that I think the people must be buying from each other.

Some of us would be a little staggered — I would, I know — to have attended a garage sale in Glen Cove, N.Y., Wednesday, where one Louise Converse Morgan unloaded the lares and penates of her posh Long Island estate for a cool $550,000. I mean, that's a GARAGE sale!

Ms. Morgan, heiress to financier J. P., opened her estate Sunday for a preview and drew 3,000 potential buyers and just plain gawkers. A sizeable number of people to have wandering through your estate and home, fingering the curtains and handling the chinaware. I could just see them trampling the petunias, awefully eyeing furniture and tapestries, giggling to find dust on the Louis XIV escritoire.

One of the items was a $17,500 set of china, so this was not your average swap meet where greasy chaps in pickups and campers bring a load of hot guitars to exchange for a Porsche carburetor, a Jag transmission or a Brrrt-2 outboard motor.

The Morgan Merchandise Mart had plenty to offer besides life-size color TVs, Oriental rugs, furniture by Chippendale and Hepplewhite, sterling silver and Spode china. There were, for example, the 10 purebred Labradors, remainders from the pack of 75 Mrs. Morgan used to show.

The preview was a one-day tourist attraction. The throng wandered about the 22-acre estate, beneath century-old trees and through formal gardens for which a crew of 15 gardeners was once responsible. Imagine having 15 fulltime gardeners on your payroll. You'd show that crabgrass a thing or two!

Once the clutter of expensive appliances, Givenchy gowns, and Impressionist masters had been got out of the way, the house and estate itself were going on the block. If you have $760,000 and a yen to live in Glen Cove, drop a card to the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. in New York.

I was going to put my own house on the market, but I don't have 10 dogs. I don't even have 15 gardeners. Just one — my wife.

Pot devotees using courts to pep drive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Advocates of liberalizing the nation's marijuana laws are adding the courts to their field of operation.

In the past, pot advocates have usually confined their efforts to state legislatures, promoting hearings on liberalizing laws while skirting ballot referendums as too dangerous and the courts because cases could generally be made only after a marijuana conviction.

Now the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML) has prepared a court case that it believes puts the pot people on the offensive.

In its case, filed in the U.S. District Court of the District of Columbia, NORML is seeking to overturn both the District of Columbia and federal laws on pot possession.

According to a memorandum filed with the court, the main thrust of the NORML suit is, "in a nutshell, that marijuana is not sufficiently dangerous to the user or to our society for its private possession and use by adults to be made a criminal offense."

To buttress its argument, NORML has enlisted the services of two respected marijuana researchers: Dr. Lester Grinspoon, associate professor of psychiatry at the Harvard Medical School, and Dr. J. Thomas Ungerleider, an associate professor of psychiatry at the UCLA Medical Center.

Dancers heat up the place

A Japanese meteorologist named Dr. Miho Daigo operates a thermometer so sensitive that it almost instantly records any change in air temperature whatsoever. He set it up at a Tokyo performance of an all-girl review. It showed the temperature in the theater rose two degrees everytime the girls danced.

Hyperacusia is an odd ailment of the ear. Sufferers of same develop a most acute sense of hearing. Some common little noises sound like cannon shots. Medicoes report one victim of this disorder was able to hear the ticking of a wristwatch from 30 feet away.

Exactly who first started using hair curling irons remains a mystery, but the record indicates the old Romans in the reign of Emperor Titus, A.D. 79 to 81, employed little hollow tubes filled with boiling water for that chore.

Rainbow

Q. "You've hard that old saying, 'Rainbow at night, sailors delight, rainbow at morning, sailors taking warning.' What's the point?"

A. When you face a rainbow, you're always situated between it and the sun with the sun at your back. Most rains move from west to east. So if you see the rainbow to the east in the evening when the sun is at your back, that suggests the storm is moving away from you. But if you see the rainbow to the west the sun at your back, that suggests the storm is moving toward you.

Q. "What's the first medicine mentioned in the Bible?"

A. Wine.

Police Ads

Big city police departments ought to be budgeted to buy advertisements daily in local newspapers. To print descriptions of wanted persons with their pictures. TV commercials might do, but they flash past too fast, so tend to prompt phony reports. That's Item No. 183C in my Bright Idea folder. Please return it to the file cabinet, if you have no further use for it. Incidentally, newspapers also ought to invite paid ads from the parents or legal guardians of missing juveniles. Already mentioned 62 such youngsters run away every hour.

When you sleep, it's claimed, your body gets a little bigger, your brain slightly smaller.

Argument continues as to why toothbrushes sell better in green packages than in blue. A Seattle customer named Marilyn says she knows why. "Blue isn't an 'edible' color. Green is. If you question this, try serving a cake with blue frosting. Not many will try a piece."

By JACK C. FOX
United Press International

Only a few weeks after Patricia Hearst was kidnaped from an apartment in Berkeley a few blocks from the University of California campus the gossip of San Francisco was that she was in on it from the start.

It was much later before such a thought surfaced in the news media but in bar and barbershop, hotel lobby and home, the "inside" word was that Patty and her fiance, Steven Weed, were a pair of radical hippies who had made suckers of the Establishment.

Despite disclaimers from her parents, from the FBI, from Weed himself, the theory fed on the bizarre twists in the headlines until people, wanting to believe the worst as so many people do, took gossip as gospel.

They pointed to the chaotic giveaway of $2 million in food which produced not Patty's release but a new diatribe against her "fascist" parents.

They shook their heads over the columns and columns of pompous Maoist propaganda printed in the newspapers as another condition of her release —which still did not come.

Patricia herself gave substance to the idea as her tape recordings became taunting and strident and finally defiant.

"The media in complete cooperation from my parents has created a public image of me as a helpless, innocent girl who was supposedly abducted by two terrible blacks, escaped convicts," she said.

"I'm a strong woman. I no longer fear the SLA because they are not the ones who want me to die. I have never been forced to say anything on tape. Nor have I been brainwashed, drugged, tortured, hypnotized or in any way confused."

The Hearsts clung to the belief that she had indeed been brainwashed and that she was acting out of terror and fear of death.

But even their faith was shaken when she was definitely identified as a young woman holding an automatic weapon in a bank holdup in San Francisco; as the woman who sprayed a Los Angeles sporting goods store with bullets and a fugitive who clearly could have escaped her captors if she desired but made no attempt to do so.

And in the end she turned on her fiance:

"During the last few months Steven has shown himself to be a sexist, ageist pig. Not that this is a sudden change from the way he always was. It merely became blatant during the period I was still a hostage. Frankly, Steven is the one who sounds brainwashed."

Those who believed —and a great many still believe —that she helped stage her own abduction were wrong.

Anyone who separates fact from rumor, digs into her background, hears the words of people who knew her well and studies events as they transpired can come only to that conclusion.

But another incontrovertible conclusion is that somewhere along the way after her kidnaping she jettisoned a young lifetime of almost "square" behavior.

That is the enigma. How? And why?

The transformation of Patricia Hearst may never be explained unless she tells the story herself —if she lives to do so.

Patricia is the third of five daughters of publisher Randolph Hearst and his wife, Catherine. She is granddaughter of newspaper empire founder William Randolph Hearst and is said to have the same "strong willed and stubborn" traits of that lengendary figure.

As a youngster she attended Santa Catalina, a private Catholic school in Monterey.

THE REAL PATTY? — Only a few weeks after Patricia Hearst was kidnaped from an apartment in Berkeley a few blocks from the University of California campus, the gossip of San Francisco was that she was in on it from the start. UPI article examines theory.

She went next to the Crystal Springs School for girls. That was where she met Steven Weed who taught mathematics there. Six years older than Patricia, Weed had recently graduated from Princeton. His father was a stockbroker in the upper, upper middle class in Palo Alto.

She was 16 when she graduated from Crystal Springs and she went steadily with Weed from that time on. There is no indication she ever had another serious boyfriend.

Patricia enrolled at Menlo College near Stanford University. Weed had an apartment nearby. She had a straight "A" record in all subjects and won the school's highest scholarship award.

Menlo faculty adviser Leon Loofourow said she was "the ideal student —studied hard, never dropped a course, attended classes faithfully and was no problem whatsoever to anyone."

"She was one of the most delightful, feminine young ladies I have met —well mannered, well groomed and 101 per cent her own person," Loofbourow said.

Biology professor Stuart Olson knew Patty as a former student and also through his friendship with Weed.

"You'd never suspect she had money if you didn't know," he said. "She is completely unpretentious and it embarrassed her to be thought of as a Hearst heiress. She wanted to be thought of and treated as just another human being."

Refusing to have a "coming out" as a debutante in San Francisco society, Patricia entered UC Berkeley studying art and art history.

In January, 1973, she and Weed rented the apartment near the campus, both signing the lease, and paying $250 a month. It was one of four units in the building with two bedrooms and a bath upstairs, a living room and kitchen downstairs.

Her parents approved of Weed but apparently did not realize how intimate their association had become. Weed, who was a graduate student at Berkeley, pressed Patricia to be frank with her parents and she finally told her mother.

That evening Weed asked how Mrs. Hearst took it.

Patty gave him a deadpan look.

"She bought me another set of dishes," she said.

The apartment was furnished with potted plants, stereo gear, Persian rugs, a TV set. Patty had her cats a Siamese and an alley cat.

She and Weed lived very quietly, seldom went out but watched TV and listened to music —Simon and Garfunkel was a favorite. They had friends in occasionally, most of them Weed's acquaintances from his Princeton days.

One visitor said they smoked marijuana occasionally. Patty had become interested in cooking and one couple recalled she had done a very respectable job of serving up Cornish rock hen.

Patricia had a small MG and they went off frequently on weekends, sometimes to a ski resort. Another time they visited the Hearst castle at San Simeon, staying overnight at a nearby motel like any tourist.

Weed had never been very political. At Princeton he was among the anti-Vietnam protestors but not very vocal. One of his friends was president of Students for a Democratic Society.

Weed said his closest association with SDS was an occasion when he agreed to play as a quarterback for its Princeton chapter team and they beat the university ROTC team.

He said Patricia was almost completely apolitical and friends agreed. They had living room discussions about politics, both voted for McGovern but were not involved in any campus activist groups.

In fact, virtually no one among the student body was aware that a Hearst was among them.

The situation changed in December, 1973, when the newspapers made quite a splash of the news of her engagement to Weed, pointing up that they were students at Berkeley.

That may have been the means that brought her to the attention of a deadly group known as the Symbionese Liberation Army who were determined on making the headlines themselves.

Patricia Hearst was carried screaming from the Berkeley apartment about 9:20 p.m. on Feb. 4. The police report says that a white girl first knocked on the sliding glass door of the apartment and then two black men forced their way inside. That led to an early belief that her kidnapers were primarily blacks.

But, as the story unfolded, it developed that Patricia was in the hands of a tiny band now known to consist of one black man, two white men and five white women.

Donald DeFreeze, 30, one of eight children, grew up in a black ghetto of Glenville, Ohio. His father, now dead, was a toolmaker. His mother, 55, is a registered nurse in a convalescent home.

DeFreeze dropped out of Empire Junior High School during the ninth grade but he had a sharp mind, read a great deal and educated himself. He moved to Buffalo, N.Y., when he was 14 and lived with the Rev. William Foster, a fundamentalist minister, and his family.

The boy became deeply religious and he also became infatuated with Foster's daughter, Harriet. The family opposed the relationship. When he was 16, Donald was arrested in Buffalo for burglary, grand theft and theft of a weapon. He spent the next three years in a reformatory.

After his release he moved to Newark, N.J., where he married Gloria Thomas, a woman four years older than he with three children. They had three more children but their marriage broke up after five years.

DeFreeze moved to the west coast, the Los Angeles area, and immediately began to run into trouble with the law. He had developed an obsession for guns and was almost always found carrying a weapon during a number of arrests.

At one trial, he acted as his own attorney. He showed a good knowledge of the law. In his summation, he read the Bible, wept and sang hymns to the jury. Then he changed his plea to guilty and got off with a light sentence.

In 1969, he tried to cash a stolen check at a Los Angeles bank and was shot in the hand and foot in a gun battle with a security guard and police. He was sentenced to five years to life imprisonment and sent to the California Medical Facility at Vacaville, Calif.

In 1972 he was transferred to the state prison at Soledad The facilities at Soledad needed repair. DeFreeze was taken to a minimum security area to work on a boiler. His guard wandered away and DeFreeze vaulted over a fence and disappeared.

Patricia Soltysik died on her 24th birthday.

Daughter of a pharmacist in Goleta, Calif., she was an honors student in high school, president of the Usherettes, a girl's service organization. She won an academic scholarship to Berkeley in the late 1960s and went there, majoring in French and Spanish.

"Some people can live in Berkeley and come out unscathed," her brother, Fred, said. "Others are consumed by it."

She was not a particularly attractive woman and was nagged by a weight problem. In her junior year in college, her life changed. She took the name of Mizmoon from a Lesbian love poem written to her. She gave up cashmere sweaters, skirts and nylons

ENDORSES
MARY MONTES
FOR
35th CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT
U.S. CONGRESS

AN ENDORSEMENT OF MARY MONTES FOR THE 35th CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT OF THE UNITED STATE CONGRESS BY JESSIE HAVER BUTLER, THE FIRST LOBBYIST FOR WOMEN AT THE CAPITOL IN WASHINGTON, D.C.

MARY MONTES IS A CITIZEN ADVOCATE!

Her life-long residency in this area has given her a firm grasp of the needs of the people in this area. Born in Chino, the 35 year-old candidate was educated in the Pomona schools, Mount San Antonio College, U.C.L.A., Cal State University at Los Angeles and is currently finishing her dissertation at the Claremont Graduate School. She holds an Associate of Arts and Bachelor of Arts degrees and expects to receive her Ph.D. before June, 1974. She is a recent recipient of a full Ford Foundation fellowship in Administrative Leadership.

MARY MONTES HAS BEEN INVOLVED IN MANY COMMUNITY - ORIENTED PROJECTS. PROFESSIONALLY SHE HAS WORKED AS AN EDUCATOR in Chino, Pomona and at the Claremont Colleges.

"Every voter in the 35th Congressional District and every mother and father should swarm to their voting booths on June 4 and vote to send Mary Montes to Washington to serve the needs of American women, children and families of today."

"Let me explain. Recent news inform us that our country loses more babies in the first week of their lives than any other civilized country. Also, our country is 11th on the list of nations which loses more babies the first years of their lives than any other civilized country. Last year 10,000 children less than 3 months old, died in their cribs at night. 1,000 to 1,500 of those babies died in California. Also last year infant mortality was the 5th leading killer in the United States—the richest country in the world."

"Mary Montes knows this. She also has had years of the best training that California's educational system has to offer. She is concerned about the quality of care the young receive—at home and at school."

"I speak for women and also for men and fathers who suffer from the effects of poor child care."

"Although many fine men are running in the 35th Congressional District our state needs MARY MONTES in Washington. She knows our needs and knows what to do there."

and took to Turkish pants and peasant blouses. She became emotionally attached to Camilla Hall, five years her elder.

In February, 1972, she got a job as janitor at the Berkeley public library and took the opportunity to plunge into revolutionary tracts night and day.

In August, 1972, Donald DeFreeze fled to her apartment in Berkeley, a fugitive. They had not met before but he had been sent there by mutual friends.

Camilla Hall was 29 when she died. Called "Candy' by her friends in Minnesota where she grew up, she was a plump girl wearing thick lensed glasses without which she was almost helpless, a blonde, smiling daughter of a Lutheran minister.

After graduation from a college in Minnesota, she was a social worker first in Duluth and then in Minneapolis.

She drifted to Los Angeles and in 1971 moved to Berkeley where she painted, wrote poetry, played the guitar and got a job as a gardener in a city park. She met Miss Soltysik.

When she died an ammunition bandolier was found strapped around her shoulder. At her side was the charred body of her pet Siamese cat and the cat's collar.

Nancy Ling Perry, 26, was a tiny girl, only five feet tall and weighing less than 100 pounds. She grew up in Santa Rosa, Calif., where she was a high school cheerleader and a supporter of Sen. Barry Goldwater for president. She went to the University of California at Berkeley, majoring in speech.

At age 20, she married Gilbert Perry, a black pianist and music student at Berkeley. They lived together for five years and when they broke up in 1973 friends said she was distraught.

She wandered somewhat aimlessly around the campus, using drugs, helping operate a fruit juice stand, working at North Beach as a topless blackjack dealer. She became interested in prison visits.

William Harris, 29, was from a middle class family in the Indianapolis suburb of Carmel where his parents live on the edge of a golf course. He was a speech major at Indiana University where he met his wife-to-be, Emily Schwartz.

Harris served in combat as a Marine in Vietnam and his family said he was upset by military racial discrimination against blacks.

The couple came to Berkeley in 1972. Although carrying a bachelor's degree in speech and a masters in urban education, Harris was unable to get a teaching job and instead went to work as a postman.

Emily Harris, 26, had been Chi Omega sorority social chairman at Indiana University and won top grades. For a brief time after college she was a high school teacher in Bloomington, Ind.

A friend at the university described her as "an elegant dresser, an elegant girl, dainty, gentle."

She wrote her father in Chicago saying she had met a "beautiful black man" — apparently DeFreeze —who "has conveyed to me the torture of being black in this country and of being poor."

"Bill and I have developed a relationship that no longer confines us and I am enjoying relationships with other men," she wrote. "I am in love with the black man I referred to earlier and that love is very beautiful and satisfying."

William (Willie) Wolfe, 22, was the son of a doctor in Allentown, Pa., drawn to Berkeley by the recognized quality of education there and by the "progressive spirit."

He became particularly interested in classes on the black movement and interested in the Black Cultural Association at Vacaville. He visited the prison and was particularly impressed by the elaborate ceremony and fist-slapping handshake rituals.

Wolfe was back home in Pennsylvania for the year end holidays at the time arrests were made for the murder of Oakland school superintendent Marcus Foster. An old Oldsmobile his dad had given him had been linked to the slaying.

A special dinner had been planned for Willie but he got a long distance call from San Francisco, boarded a bus and was not heard from again until his body was found in the ashes of a house on the edge of Watts.

Angela Atwood, 25, is believed to be the woman who knocked on Miss Hearst's apartment door the night she was kidnaped.

She came into the SLA through her friendship at Indiana University with William and Emily Harris. Her husband, Gary, also was a student there. They moved to Berkeley and stayed with the Harris couple but the marriage broke up and Gary went home. She got a job as a waitress.

Her hometown is North Haledon, N.J., where her father is an official of a Teamsters union local. In her high school yearbook she is listed as an honor graduate, a delegate to the American Legion girls' state conference and a captain of cheerleaders.

Those were the people who became Patty Hearst's captors, and then her companions, for more than three months.

They called themselves the "Symbionese Liberation Army." DeFreeze took the name of Cisque —after Joseph Cinque, 18th Century African who led a mutiny aboard a slave ship bound for Cuba.

The SLA had its roots at the California Medical Facility at Vacaville, part of the state penal system. Persons convicted of crimes who are thought to be mentally disturbed are sent there.

In 1968, a group of black convicts at Vacaville suggested formation of an organization that could work on the special problems of black prisoners. Authorities okayed the idea and gave recognition to the Black Cultural Association which had approximately 130 members.

Colston Westbrook, an instructor at Berkeley, became a sponsor and teacher for the BCA.

Westbrook encouraged outsiders —most of them white and many from Berkeley —to visit the prison and participate in the program. One of the visitors was Willie Wolfe.

One of the inmates and members of the BCA was DeFreeze. He campaigned to become chairman of the organization but was rejected in an election. DeFreeze was so angry that he filed a protest that the association was undemocratic and illegally constituted.

The protest was turned down but DeFreeze was given authority to form a committee named "Unisight" which became the nucleus of the SLA.

Other visitors to the prison were William and Emily Harris and Patricia Soltysik. Nancy Ling Perry was living with the Harris couple at the time.

When DeFreeze escaped, he had a cadre waiting for him. He and Miss Soltysik are believed to have written the "founding documents" of the Symbionese Federation.

Why they chose the name "Symbionese" has not been explained. It came apparently from the word "symbiosis" which is defined as "the living together in more or less intimate association or even close union of two dissimilar organizations in any of various mutual beneficial relationships."

Their attempts to draw other radical groups in with them were scorned on the most part —first because they were so naive and disorganized and secondly because their espousal of terrorism was too much to stomach.

That reaction infuriated Cinque and his band and they decided to make a name for themselves.

On the first time out they scored a bullseye, claiming credit for the assassination with cyanide-coated bullets last November of black Oakland school superintendent Marcus Foster.

Then they really hit the publicity jackpot with the kidnaping of Patricia Hearst.

The band that abducted Patricia bore some striking resemblances to Charles Manson's murderous "Family."

"Cinque' gave the orders and they were obeyed. On the afternoon before six of the SLA members were slain, an eyewitness in the house said that the girls first asked him permission to remove sweaters when the room became hot.

As in the Manson menage, sex was prevalent and unrestricted with the women outnumbering the men by two to one.

But unlike the commune at the Spahn Ranch which gulped down LSD and other hard drugs, there was no evidence at any of the SLA hideouts that its members used any narcotics.

For all their vaunted discipline, DeFreeze, Wolfe and four of the women let down their guard so completely on May 17 that it almost seemed they were asking for destruction.

The house on 54th Street was the scene of a party from 8 a.m. until late afternoon with people dropping in and out and children telling people all over the neighborhood about the white women with guns in the home.

DeFreeze gave one neighbor $20 that morning to go out and buy beer and around noon another "beer run' was made. However, the SLA members apparently were not drinking. One of the women told a visitor —"We've got to be alert —got to be on guard."

Wolfe sat on a top bunk bed, twirling his pistol cowboy style. DeFreeze took off his shoes and sat on the front porch, playing with his knife and chatting with an unidentified black man.

By 3:30 p.m., hundreds of police had infiltrated the neighborhood and ringed the house. Then at 5:50 p.m. a bullhorn blasted out the orders for the occupants to come out. One of the white women put an eight-year-old black boy in a bathtub for safety.

After 10 minutes with no response, tear gas was fired into the structure. The response was an ear-shattering volley of automatic weapon fire. A warlike gun battle ensued but three blacks —a man, woman and child —staggered out to safety.

If they showed sloppy guard watch, the SLA went down in flames as defiantly as they had sworn they would.

Camilla Hall is believed to have been the first to perish, struck by a bullet in the center of her forehead. Nancy Ling Perry fell next, her body ripped open with bullets.

DeFreeze, Wolfe, Mizmoon and Angela Atwood crawled into a 20 inch space between the floor and the ground wearing gas masks. The wooden bungalow burst into flames. The three whites died of burns and smoke inhalation. DeFreeze apparently was the last. Coroner Thomas Noguchi said he apparently put a pistol to his head and pulled the trigger.

"They chose to stay under the floor as the fire burned instead of getting out," Noguchi said. "In all my years as coroner, I've never seen

Back, Leg Pains Will Get Worse Before Better

By Dr. Wes Helzer, D.C.

An estimated half million people will be disabled this year by spinal defects which cause low back and leg pain. What is being done to correct this grave problem?

Dr. W. Helzer D.C.

Our research indicates that most low back and associated leg pains are caused by truly mechanical defects in the alignment of one or more segments of the lower spine.

These spinal segments may be displaced by a fall, accident or back strain. Another frequent cause is chronic posture decay.

It's reasonably simple. When a spinal segment is displaced, the supporting muscles and ligaments may be stretched or torn causing acute and disabling back pain. When a segment is displaced beyond a critical point it partly closes the nerve openings between adjacent segments. The result is excruciating pain, which needless to say, is anything but reasonable.

The spinal nerves which supply the legs pass through the openings between adjacent segments of the lower spine. You see, when one of the segments is displaced, the nerves to the legs might be pinched or irritated. This brings about the nerve pain that extends down the leg.

What can be done for the person with low back and associated leg pain?

My experience shows that individuals with acute and chronic problems of this nature respond extremely well to specialized chiropractic care. Our X-ray analysis can reveal even minute spinal distortions. And I might add; early detection of this problem allows effective care and prevention of progressive spinal defects.

Low back and leg pains often amount to needless suffering truly without reason.

(Note. More than 700 leading insurance companies recognize claims for modern care such as that available at our office, particularly for the specialized treatment for low back and leg pains as described above.)

(Note. Dr. Helzer maintains chiropractic offices at 9461 Flower, Bellflower, telephone: 866-3721)

Tito's letter blueprint for his nation's future

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

On Sept. 29 1972, President Tito of Yugoslavia wrote a letter to be circulated among all branches of the Yugoslav Communist Party. Today, it has become known simply as "The Letter" and it could stand as the 82-year-old Tito's last will and testament.

It forms the foundation of Yugoslavia's new constitution adopted Feb. 21 and provides the central theme of the party program presented to the current 10th party congress.

Tiot feared that in the years since he rejected the authority of Josef Stalin over Yugoslav communism that the party had grown soft and perhaps open to corruption.

He rejected a "consumer psychology" and "all forms of extravagance and parasitism."

Above all, he demanded that the "working class" assume political leadership.

Those were the elements most prominent in the new constitution — Yugoslavia's fourth since World War II, and in Tito's report to the party congress, the first in five years.

Prominent also was his denunciation of "nationalism" among the old states that make up modern Yugoslavia—Serbia, Croatia, Slovenia, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Macedonia and Montenegro.

A student uprising in Croatia threatened in 1971-72 to lead the break-up of Yugoslavia as a single nation.

In his speech to the party congress, Tito noted that factionalism had been a major problem since the last congress in 1969.

In that time the party has expelled more than 51,000 members and dropped another 92,000 for inactivity.

But in that time, he said, things have been returned to their proper perspective.

In the years that Tito has sought to maintain Yugoslavia's independence in the communist world and its stand as a nonaligned nation, there have been many seeming contradictions.

On the one hand he has allowed to develop an economy with many of the trappings of western affluence — supermarkets with frozen foods, television commercials, stores stocked with western goods and along the streets, parking meters.

On the other, he has called for worker management possibly threatening the jobs of the very managers who made the system work.

At the same time that he stresses self-management he presses for greater party control over the lives of all Yugoslavs.

He attacks Western "imperialism" at the same time he rejects "hegemony", the term he applies to Soviet attempts to dominate the communist world.

He espouses communism but he seeks U.S. and other Western private investment. He denounces "liberalism" and calls for party control but without the brutalities of Stalinism.

He refuses to designate a successor, but depends instead under the new constitution, on a rotation of the presidency among the nine members of the new presidential council.

Historical society double fete: birthday, barbecue

POMONA — The Historical Society of Pomona Valley will have two reasons to celebrate on June 30.

On that day, the society will commemorate its 58th anniversary and also hold its seventh annual barbecue at the old Phillips Mansion, 2640 W. Pomona Blvd.

The barbecue, from noon to 5 p.m., is one of the major events held by the society annually to raise fund for the acquisition and restoration of historical landmarks.

Tickets, at $3.50 per person and $1.75 for children 10 and under, may be purchased at the society's office, 367 S. Garey Ave.

As in past years, the barbecue June 30 will be held with the cooperation of city government.

The City Council authorized the use of city equipment, such as tables, chairs and a public address system, grading and sprinkling equipment for the preparation of the grounds for a horse show and parking, and other city services.

The program, being held in cooperation with the Pomona Jaycees and the Cal Poly Circle K Club, also will include singing, dancing, stage coach rides for children and musical entertainment.

Mrs. Frieda S. Rieger will be general chairman of this year's barbecue.

Working with her are committeemen Glenn Cunnison and Orrin Patterson, publicity; George Siddel, finance; Miss Elizabeth Zilles, program; and the R. J. Rieger family, barbecue preparations.

Also named to the planning committee are:

O. G. Bruckbauer, Clemett Nieibel, Fred Sharp, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hamilton, Dr. and Mrs. Oscar Edinger, Mrs. Edward Galipo, Harmon H. (Bud) Day, Robert Berryman, Mr. and Mrs. A. Fages.

W. M. Blackwell, Burton Cahoon, Mrs. G. Trebel, Floyd Bonell, William Nesbit, Mrs. Marjorie Souther, Mrs. R. Hathaway, Maurice Williams, LeRoy Hughes, Lona Lawson, R. C. Brown, T. S. Hinton, David Streeter, Mrs. William T. Cox, Don McDougal and Steve Ibey.

Graduation rite held at PCGH

POMONA — Pomona Catholic High School held its 1974 commencement exercises Sunday night before an overflow crowd of family and friends at St. Joseph Catholic Church.

The Very Rev. Msgr. William J. Barry, pastor of Our Lady of the Assumption Catholic Church, Claremont, delivered the commencement address.

The 99 members of the graduating class were presented with their diplomas by the Rev. Msgr. James B. Clyne. The class was presented for graduation by the Rev. Norman Priebe.

Musical selections for the program included "Crown Him with Many Crowns," "Sacerdotes Domini" and "Ave Maria."

Earlier Sunday, a baccalaureate Mass was celebrated at the church with Msgr. Clyne officiating.

The class valedictorian was Annette Liberatore. The salutorian was senior class president Terri Alves.

LEARNING IS FUN

Dr. Richard Lewis, audiologist and consultant with the Pomona school's AUDIT program, attracts the attention of Jennifer Albritton, 2, and Mrs. Faith Schroeder, her instructor, during tutoring session.

Pomona school project expands to reach, teach hard-of-hearing infants

By VONNE ROBERTSON
P-B staff writer

POMONA — Jennifer Albritton, 2, was just 8 months old when her mother, Mrs. Bob Albritton of Pomona, realized that the baby probably had a hearing loss.

"She was inattentive and didn't react to sounds," the mother recalls. Medical examination verified the impaired hearing of the baby girl.

Fortunely, Jennifer now receives individual tutoring in the Auditory Utilization and Development Infant Training program (AUDIT) of the Pomona Unified School District at Harrison School.

Established in February, 1973, with five preschool students, the AUDIT program has expanded, according to Mrs. Faith Schroeder, speech pathologist and audiologist, who supervises the project.

Dr. Richard Lewis, audiologist and instructor in education of the hearing impaired at Cal State Los Angeles, has joined the program as consultant.

In addition to consulting with teachers of aurally handicapped students at San Jose, Yorba and Harrison schools in Pomona, Dr. Lewis is testing youngsters to find the level of response to sounds and speech and to see how well these children can hear with or without a hearing aid.

In July, the Pomona School District will sponsor a program in which Dr. Lewis will test infants with suspected hearing loss. The testing will be done in a central location without charge to the families.

While many of the youngsters to be tested are being referred to the school system by physicians, parents who suspect deafness problems in their babies are invited to contact Mrs. Ruby lee Gracy, coordinator of special education, at 623-5251.

Dr. Lewis stresses the urgent need for early recognition of a hearing loss.

"A child begins to hear language at birth and has a fairly wide vocabulary by the time he is 3 or 4 years old.

"If the normal language input is denied, the child will be retarded in his speaking and understanding abilities. Once the hearing loss is identified, the child is examined by a doctor and then fitted with a hearing aid.

"Then a concentrated program is demanded to compensate for lost time and to be sure the child learns the correct words and phrases," says Dr. Lewis.

Parents involvement is crucial to the program, adds the consultant, for it is the day-to-day training that makes the difference in the child's ability to cope with a normal classroom situation eventually.

There are very few totally deaf youngsters. Most suffer from varying degrees of impairment. It is through the use and amplification of this residual hearing that the hope of education comes.

Success in teaching depends upon early identification, early amplification, and cooperation of the parent, Mrs. Schroeder stresses.

Preschool training and tutorial programs prepare these handicapped children for cooperative placement in the classroom, depending upon their ability and progress.

While the AUDIT program concentrates on the preschool child, older students are tested in the public schools by school nurses and referred to the audiologists when further examination is indicated.

Speech therapists in the school district work with children having speech and hearing problems in special classes and on an individual basis.

Macrame class will begin at Y

POMONA — A class in macrame will be offered by the Pomona Valley YMCA beginning Thursday.

The class will meet each Thursday for a period of four weeks from 7 to 9 p.m. Cost of the class will be $5 for YMCA members and $10 for nonmembers. Instructor for the course will be Shirley Cogan.

For information, persons may call 623-6433.

L.V. fire burns 2 acres of brush

LA VERNE — A two-acre brush fire Sunday afternoon at the base of the foothills in La Verne kept firemen from the county, forestry service and the La Verne Fire Department busy until the stubborn blaze was extinguished.

The fire was in a hilly and hard-to-reach area south of Linda Lane and west of Canterwood Street.

Officials from the forestry service found matches at the scene of the fire. The cause of the fire is under investigation.

L.V. Heights road will be resurfaced

LA VERNE — The Los Angeles County Road Department will resurface a half mile of Brydon Road, north of Golden Hills Road, in La Verne Heights this week.

The job was authorized by the Board of Supervisors to reduce maintenance costs, according to First District Supervisor Peter F. Schabarum.

Last summer my wife and I bought two domestic tours to the East involving Trans World Airlines, Inc., Hertz and Travelodge.

This included two weeks' car rental and unlimited mileage with gasoline not furnished.

The original car furnished by Hertz at the Pittsburgh airport broke down in Morgantown, W. Va., with a dead battery. I had given my two weeks rental coupon to Hertz at Pittsburgh.

Hertz at the Morgantown airport took the car that failed and supplied me with another car also assigned to the Pittsburgh agency. I returned this car to Pittsburgh.

Ever since completing the trip I have been pestered, first by Hertz's billing agency at Oklahoma City, and more recently by Hertz at Morgantown for an extra week's car rental.

More than three months ago I wrote to Ameropa Travel Inc., which handled the car rental and motels; TWA, which sold the package; and Hertz at the Greater Pittsburgh airport, Oklahoma City, and the Morgantown, W. Va., airport.

The object was to find out who got the second week's car rental.

So far I have heard from no one except Hertz at Morgantown, which claims that I still owe $81.37.

Can you help me find out whether the rightful Hertz agency received the second week's car rental?—B.W., Claremont.

We took your problem to Hertz Corp. in Oklahoma City.

Our answer was a copy of a memo to Hertz at Morgantown instructing that office to stop billing you and to start billing Ameropa Travel for the second week's car rental.

Can you please help me with a problem I'm having with a mail order house?

Four months ago I ordered a metal bookshelf and a radio. Upon approval of credit I was to receive both items for a free three-week trial period.

At the conclusion of that time I was to either return the items or be billed for them.

I have never received either item but I have received several letters. Each letter has contained a bill. The most recent letters have threatened to ruin my credit and turn me over to a collection agency.

I have written letters explaining that I have not received the items. I have filled out company forms. I have written explaining that due to the extensive delay I am no longer interested in the items. I have even written a letter asking the company to politely and quickly drop dead in its money hungry tracks but I still continue to receive the threats.

Can you help me?—E.D., La Verne.

After we wrote to the company, a credit of $77.57 was issued to you to remove the balance due for the bookshelf and radio which you did not receive. The company claims that they were shipped about a month and a half after you ordered them.

Mystery man in news quiz led Watergate panel

This North Carolina Democrat was elected to the U.S. Senate on June 5, 1954. Rather than seek re-election this fall, he will be retiring at the end of his term.

He has become well-known in the past year in his role as chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee. Do you know his name?

You'll get a chance to identify this 77-year-old Senator and answer a variety of news questions in the quiz appearing today on page A-7.

This feature is published weekly by the Progress-Bulletin as part of its current events programs for 52 valley schools.

Answers to today's quiz questions may be found in the Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan advertisement on page A-8.

Alaska on screen for camera club

POMONA — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jackson will present a taped color slide show entitled "September in Alaska" at a meeting of the Pomona Valley Camera Club Thursday.

The meeting will be held at the Great Western Savings & Loan Association building, 300 Pomona Mall West at 7:30 p.m.

The Jacksons made their slides on a car trip to Fairbanks which took them to Wrangell, Prince Rupert, Haines and Anchorage.

Joy Huguley, a past club president, will be host for the evening and serve refreshments. President Homer Wooden will be in charge.

Pomona reviews budget requests

POMONA—Alllocations in next year's proposed budget were reviewed by City Council members in their second budget study session Saturday morning.

Representatives from the Centennial Committee, Cultural Arts Committee, Library Board and Pomona Concert Band appeared before council members to discuss allocations directed toward their organizations.

The budget will again be presented to the council for consideration at its June 17 meeting. Before that meeting city staff members will be seeking ways to reduce budget expenditures.

Banquet slated for S.D. girl athletes

SAN DIMAS — Girl athletes from San Dimas High School will be honored Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the school's Girls' Athletic Association annual awards banquet in the high school gym.

Individual athletes from each sport will be recognized, and trophies will be presented to the most valuable player, the most inspirational player and the most improved player in basketball, softball, tennis and volleyball.

Tickets for the buffet are $3.

Claremont to stage 'battle of bands' for July 4 fete

CLAREMONT — Ten country and western bands are being sought for a "battle of the bands" July 4 at Memorial Park.

The competition is being jointly sponsored by the city of Claremont and Radio Station KKAR.

Prizes will be awarded to the first, second, and third-place music makers, with $150 to the winners, $100 to the runner-up, and $50 for third.

The three finalists will perform for the cash awards at the Pomona College Athletic Field from 7:30 to 9 p.m. July 4 before the annual fireworks show.

Bands are being accepted on a first-register basis at KKAR Radio. Entries will be limited to the first 10 bands registering.

The bands will be judged both on copy and original work, stage presentation and country appearance.

Announcement of the three finalists will be made at 3 p.m. on the Memorial Park stage. Each band will have 10 minutes to set up and 20 minutes to perform.

The first band to register has the first choice of time and so on until all time slots have been filled.

Further information on the battle of the bands may be obtained by phoning Ron Hagan at 624-4531, extension 274.

Forest Service seeks advice

What role for canyons?

Pomona and San Gabriel Valley residents will have the opportunity to express their views concerning the future management of the San Gabriel and San Antonio Canyon areas this month at three public meetings.

The meetings are being held by Angeles National Forest Supervisor William T. Dresser.

"The expression of public needs and concerns is an important step in the development of land use plans for the area," he said.

The first meeting will be held Thursday at New Auditorium at Harvey Mudd College, Claremont. Topic for the meeting will be "Future Management and Use of San Antonio Canyon."

The second meeting will be held June 11 at Little Theater Hall, Pasadena Center in Pasadena. Topic for that meeting will be "Back Country Recreation and Wilderness Management in the San Gabriel Planning Unit."

The third meeting will be held in the student lounge at Azusa Pacific College, Azusa, on June 18. Topic for that meeting will be "Transportation and Access Needs for the San Gabriel Planning Unit."

All of the meetings will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Persons unable to attend the meeting, but who wish to send their comments, may mail them to the Forest Supervisor, Angeles National Forest, 150 S. Los Robles Ave., Pasadena, prior to July 1, 1974.

Opinion

Bureaucracy flaw is human nature

One of the positive results of the campus unrest of the 1960s was the establishment of student ombudsmen in many colleges and universities.

Like his namesake in the Swedish government where the idea originated, the ombudsman's job is to act as mediator between students (citizens) and the university administration (the bureaucracy), to hear complaints and try to get the appropriate official to do something about them.

A recent report by the student ombudsman at the University of Chicago is probably typical. During his stint in the spring and summer quarters of 1973, ombudsman Joel Levin handled 65 complaints, ranging from lack of bicycle security on the campus to dwindling library services to the drabness and inadequacy of student housing to the sanitary napkin situation in women's rest rooms.

Levins' comments on his experience are an interesting microcosm of life itself.

"There is often a correlation," he writes in his report, "between remoteness from direct student contact and a willingness to accommodate an individual student's problem. Thus the person students first encounter is often as petty and unyielding as his superior, four times removed, is likely to be magnanimous and accommodating.

"Often these superiors are willing to bend or abandon general policy to accommodate individual students."

As an example, one student complained that the registrar's office wouldn't allow her to graduate with honors because a secretary had inadvertently omitted her name from the honors list. An honorless diploma had thus been ordered for the student and she was given the choice of graduating without honors in June or graduating with honors in September.

The ombudsman asked the registrar why a blank diploma couldn't be given in June and the actual one mailed late when it had been printed, permitting the student to graduate with the rest of her class without being penalized for a mistake she hadn't made.

The registrar, showing no concern for the student, replied that this would inconvenience his office and would violate university regulations. It was not until the ombudsman took the matter to the president's office that the decision was changed.

The same kind of thing must happen a thousand times a day in every bureaucracy that exists, be it a university or city hall or the federal government, where, as Levin writes, the "fragmentation of the (bureaucracy) into separate little empires fosters an attitude of indifference to all things unconnected with the smooth running of each individual empire."

In other words, when we complain about "the system," we're really complaining about human nature.

That ain't the worst

In all the comment on the White House Watergate tape transcripts, no one has remarked on another aspect of them: their atrocious grammar. No one, that is, except the assistant editor of the Stamford (Conn.) Weekly Mail.

"Grammar may seem like a minor point at this time," writes Felicity Hoffecker in a letter to the New York Times, "but it is something of a shock to realize that a man who not only is a graduate of college and of law school but who has managed to become President of the United States does not know the difference between such verbs as 'lie' and 'lay' ('the men were laying in the bushes,' he says), when to use 'who' or 'whom,' 'like' or 'as,' or the tenses of verbs."

Grammar is important, she avers. Its whole point is to make meaning clearer. "Perhaps," she suggests, "this is just one more example of how these people become so mixed up."

Technically, of course, Miss Hoffecker is correct. The White House transcripts would rate a "D" in any high school English class, quite apart from their content. She's offbase, however, if she expects Americans to be upset by bad grammar. In fact, the case is just the opposite.

It's almost positively un-American to know the difference between lie and lay, who and whom, like and as, etc. Anyone who does is immediately suspected of undemocratic, elitist tendencies.

As for communication, the whole point of language as used by everyone from presidents to public relations people is not to inform or "make perfectly clear" but to persuade. You can't do that if you don't speak the language of the common man.

If Americans wanted a President who could use the king's English correctly, why, they'd have elected a king.

Oil industry's advertising claims on environment disputed in study

WASHINGTON — A highly confidential scientific study describes how oil wastes have poisoned sea life, jeopardized commercial fishing, tarred beaches and made an open sewer of the Seven Seas.

The 405-page document, prepared by the prestigious National Academy of Sciences, disputes the oil industry's massive advertising claims that petroleum production won't cause environmental damage.

On each of the 100 numbered copies, the academy has stamped: "This is a working draft for internal use only, and it bears no official endorsement . . . Not for Publication . . . DO NOT QUOTE OR CITE."

But already, the academy has deleted a crucial section on the cancer threat from oil dumping. Scientists from Shell and Chevron oil companies will help prepare the final report. Therefore, we have decided to publish the findings before they are watered down.

The study shows that more than five million tons of oil wastes are dumped in the ocean each year by tankers, offshore industries, municipal oil users and oil-spilling motorboat engines.

The pro-oil scientists lobbied in the secret sessions, we have learned, to emphasize the natural seepage of urban auto wastes, which are washed into rivers and carried out to sea.

The strategy was to minimize Big Oil's sea fouling.

Although this section was weakened even before it got in draft form, it still shows 8,000 oil spills a year in U.S. waters alone, almost all if it in coastal waters.

These accidental spills, bilge flushings and other oil discharges are killing off birdlife, threatening entire species with extinction. Certain penquins, ducks and other seabirds are disappearing, the report warns.

"These birds," it explains, "spend most of their lives on the surface of the sea . . . They dive in response to disturbances, and if they dive on encountering floating oil, they become completely coated."

Because these gregarious birds flock together, "a small oil slick (can) cause very large casualties," declares the report. "One colony of guillemots (was) reduced by 250,000 in two years, and razorbills which were once numerous are now extinct as breeders."

A poignant passage in the report describes how mother birds coated with oil tried pathetically to hatch eggs, but unwittingly covered the eggs with oil. This weakens or kills the baby birds as they are being hatched.

Birds that lay only a few eggs cannot make up for the losses caused by oil. On British coasts, according to the study, "90 per cent of stranded guillemots have been oiled." Their corpses are washed upon the beaches along a few miles of British coastline.

The oil companies have responded to the protests of environmentalists by touting "the Louisiana story." Offshore oil derricks, the companies allege, have actually increased sea life in the Gulf of Mexico.

The fishing catches, it's true, haven't diminished. But the report suggests this is because the fishermen often have shifted locations.

Meanwhile, the 25,000 wells and other oil operations have dumped 1.1 million barrels of oil in the Gulf, tainting the oysters with oily odors and tastes. Oil company canaling and dredging have also let salt water pour into the coastal marshes which eventually destroy oyster and shrimp breeding.

"The time period that the Louisiana fisheries can withstand these alterations is not known," states the report. Only the amazing ability of oysters and shrimp to reproduce under adverse conditions have kept fishing alive in Louisiana, the report suggests.

On the other side of the globe in the Caspian Sea, a combination of petroleum pollution and a drop in the water level have reduced the annual fishing catch from more than 600 million pounds to about 240 million.

The study details how oil slicks and spills poison sea life. The hydrocarbons "invade nerve tissue—spinal cord especially." Mullet exposed to oil suddenly suffer strange fat deposits in their liver. Other fish simply smother or die of shock. No more than "two-cycle outboard motor affluent," the study found, caused fish to "begin gasping after 24 hours."

Lobsters in polluted waters produced tainted eggs which taste like paraffin. The oily waters could also spoil the lobster meat, causing "tainting of the white meat, of the tail and finally the claw meat became tainted, but only in the most severe cases of pollution," says the report.

Another oil company myth demolished by the report is the cheery talk of cleaning up oil spills. The study shows that mechanical means, although usually safe enough, are often ineffective. But the ballyhooed "dispersants," which seem to make oil disappear, can cause even worse damage than the oil.

The dispersants may make it easy for marine animals to ingest the oil into their systems. Dispersants may also pollute fresh water or even brackish water longer, with greater danger, than oil. When the Torrey Canyon gushed oil into the sea, it was the dispersants that did much of the damage.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Although some Republican congressmen are running away from the President, the party itself still hasn't stopped politicking for Richard Nixon. The GOP spent more than $14,000 to send sanitized summaries of the Watergate transcripts to key Nixon supporters throughout the nation . . . Despite his hectic schedule, Vice President Gerald Ford still finds time to thank his staff personally for their work. An aide recently received a handwritten birthday note from Ford . . . The Federal Energy Administration has pleaded that the United States desperately needs more refineries to overcome the gasoline shortage. Yet the Export-Import Bank, heavily supported with U.S. cash, has granted a $22.3 million loan at six per cent interest to build a refinery in the West Indies. To build the same refinery in the United States, an American firm would have to pay 11 per cent interest, plus higher labor and building costs . . .

There may be some complaints about the mail, but not from the White House. Postmaster General Ted Klassen told us that he hasn't spoken with President Nixon for well over a year . . . The FBI has been doing some public relations work on ex-foreign agent Dusko Popov who claims in a book that he warned the late J. Edgar Hoover about Pearl Harbor. FBI agents dropped by the publisher, Grosset and Dunlop, and tried to convince vice president Bob Markel that Popov was lying. Markel listened politely, then published the book . . . . Many weeks ago, a Watergate investigator called a Washington dentist and asked for temporary treatment for a bad tooth problem which, he said, he would take care of when he went back home. The investigator recently called back and asked for a permanent fix. It looked like he would be here awhile, he said.

On right to life

The Right-to-Lifers are at it again! Not only do they seek moral and physical control (otherwise known as Church and State) of all American citizens by attempting to amend the U.S. Constitution; now they are attempting to rewrite the science of biology, such as it is.

In Lee Champion's, An Endangered Species, medical expert opinions are given to substantiate the claim that a fetus is not a fetus but a human being. centruies ago theologians sat in their cloistered, ivory towers and proclaimed when life began. This dogma has been handed down through history. Today we still have theologians sitting in their ivory towers, but now we have experts telling us that, indeed, these learned men are correct although these same experts can't even cure a common cold.

What about the human being—the mother? She, too, has the Right-to-Life considering that abortion is only one-eighth as dangerous to her life as normal child birth. Will the Constitution Amendment advocates assume the care and responsibility for the newborn, or will they follow their traditional role of turning their backs not only on the new life but the life that gave it birth and the life who is expected to support the new?

After a compulsory child is forced on the world, will Right-to-Lifers please step up and take on their own responsibility?—Charmaine Soldat, 4434 Bonnie Brae, Montclair.

Statement clarified

On behalf of the Bob Stafford for Congress Committee, I would like to clarify a statement which appeared on the front page of the Progress Bulletin on Thursday, May 23rd.

In a discussion of campaign funds received by several candidates, it was stated that income to Mr. Stafford's campaign included "$4,500 in unspecified loans." In fact, all of this amount was a loan advanced by Bob Stafford and his wife to the campaign.

What is significant about Bob Stafford's campaign fund is that over $10,000 has been received in amounts of $35 or less from 356 persons throughout the district. Mr. Stafford has, since the beginning of his campaign, limited contributions from groups or individuals to $35.

I commend the Progress Bulletin on publishing the campaign financing information available from the disclosure forms. You published the figures for five of the Democratic candidates running for Congress in the 35th District. We look forward to reading about the other five candidates. — George Gibbs, Treasurer, Stafford for Congress Campaign Committee

Gossip for today

In spite of what some upstart nations may claim, few if any of them can even faintly approach the educational opportunities to be found in the United States of America.

At Caltech, in an effort to solve the energy crisis and preserve the ecology, a course in windmill technology is now being offered.

If your educational preferences lean more to the theoretical rather than the practical, a Pennsylvania State University physicist is ready to prove that the Red Sea parting was all a mirage.

And right here at home, if you are looking for something just a bit more middle of the road in the educational line, you can sign up for courses in "Chinese," "Glass Blowing" or "An Examination of the Psychology of Women", at the Claremont Graduate School summer session.

Land-Use Plan Act has joker in deck

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The logic is too familiar — because local governments are unable to determine the best way to protect or develop local resources, the federal government is preparing to do it for them.

To this end, Congress now has before it a bill to directly influence the use and disposition of the most fundamental American tangible, the land.

Billed as the Land-Use Planning Act, the proposal has an admirable punch line: To encourage and assist the states to plan for the wise and balanced use of its land resources. But, as critics point out, it may have a more sinister meaning.

According to the House dissenting argument, this bill may be "the first step on the road toward more public control over the use of private property."

That quasi-Marxist philosophy crops up often in a report issued by the Task Force on Land Use and Urban Growth.

In the report, prepared for the Environmental Protection Agency, it is recommended there be "an end to the landowner's traditionally presumed right to develop his property regardless of environmental and social costs."

In other words, the report says the right to own property should not give an individual the right to decide what to do with it, and tough restrictions should be adopted and enforced by the courts.

Further, the landowners "should be required to bear the restrictions without compensation by government." Meaning, if a community wants open space, and that open space happens to belong to an individual, he cannot expect government subsidies to repay for lost profit potential because the land is undeveloped.

Ownership of the land is as basic a human right as any this country stands for. Imposing rules and controls will almost surely terminate that right.

Also, there is something inherently inequitable about penalizing individuals for the accident of ownership. It amounts to a crudely evolved system of sharing the wealth.

Further, land-use planning is a highly subjective theory. What is termed planning by one is called opinion by another. And the country's zoning experiences raise serious questions whether the training and expertise exist to fully coordinate land-use planning.

Laws to control air and water pollution have shown that planners are for the most part unable to forsee more than a very narrow segment of a particular problem.

Social and economic side effects of pollution laws are making themselves felt in ways that planners failed to comprehend, or completely ignored.

The land-use proposal does not call for national policies-per se. But it does exert strong federal controls over how this country will develop its urban, suburban and rural lands. And, in the long run, that much is more than enough for federal intervention on a massive scale.

There have been some badly planned usages of the land. To deny that is a fallacy. However, the right of people to determine the use of property is probably one price of democracy that should remain unavoidable.

The alternative is to believe that only the brains in Washington can cure the ills of a nation.

Edison aide urges swift energy development

LOS ANGELES — A Southern California Edison Co. official urges an "intensive development" of the nation's vast untapped domestic resources to achieve energy self sufficiency.

Howard P. Allen, executive vice president, told members of the Los Angeles Petroleum Club that America's reliance on foreign countries for its basic energy needs weakens national security and disrupts the domestic well being.

"Action must be taken to reduce our reliance on imported energy sources. To do so, however, requires a modification in existing governmental regulations and environmental attitudes," he said.

Coal and nuclear power have the greatest promise of making the U.S. self sufficient in energy resources, said Allen. "We have enough coal in the United States to supply our energy needs for several hundreds years."

He said there are now 43 nuclear plants operating in the United States producing 5½ per cent of the nation's total electric requirements.

"By the year 2000, nuclear power could be producing one-half our nation's electrical needs," he said.

The Edison official noted that some groups oppose the development of nuclear power.

"Delays in building nuclear power plants increase our reliance on foreign oil and will postpone the date when our nation achieves a necessary, acceptable degree of energy self sufficiency," he said.

Allen believes the country's present economic, environmental and energy policies are on a collision course, and changes are in order.

"Most people today are aware that we are an energy-based society, and that our individual and national well-being depends upon adequate supplies of energy.

"Our energy supplies must continue to grow if we are to have an economically healthy nation, and jobs for all the young people to support the family units yet to be fomred in this century."

Mrs. Cox has worked with Girl Scouts and has been a room mother at Montvue for several years. She is currently serving as first vice president and program chairman of the Montvue PTA. She directed the Christmas play during this academic year presented by the Montvue PTA mothers.

Mrs. Hanney has previously served as publicity, honorary life and inspirational chairman with the Montvue PTA. She is currently chairman of the Montvue workshop.

Her other acitivities include serving as an assistant leader in Brownies and Girl Scouts, Sunday School teacher, Montvue librarian aide and noon supervisor at the school.

All work, no pay but teens at Nogales earn credits

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — It's all work and no pay for 39 Nogales High School students enrolled in an Exploratory Work Experience Program.

They settle for credit and training.

Barbara Billedeaux, director of the program, said the high school students tutor some 150 elementary pupils and also do general office work in various school departments.

Working under the direction of Rorimer School instructor Charles Christ, 25, sophomores are assigned to classes with teachers or to the learning lab to tutor individuals or small groups.

Operating as a pilot program this year, the plan calls for an expansion of exploratory tutoring with increased in-service training for tutors next year, Mrs. Billedeaux said.

Teachers in Chino choose new leader

CHINO — Doretha LeSaout has been elected as the new president of the Chino Federation of Teachers for the 1974-75 school year.

The group, representing about 40 per cent of the district teachers, is affiliated with the American Federation of Teachers and AFL-CIO.

Mrs. LeSaout is an elementary music teacher at the district's elementary schools. She succeeds Larry Woodruff, who served two years as president.

Other officers for the year will be Rod Long, first vice president; Woodruff, second vice president; Patricia Berg, secretary; and Andrew Casparian, treasuer.

West End Explorer post is coed

MONTCLAIR — Explorer Post 362 was recently organized in the West End for persons interested in backpacking and the Explorer program.

Interested persons wishing to join the coeducational post must be 14 or older and a high school student. Dann Dunst of Upland and Mike Rausin of Ontario are advisers of the group sponsored by the Montclair Kiwanis Club. The Explorer program is a branch of the Boy Scouts of America.

Steve Orvis of Montclair heads the group as president. Other officers assisting include Dan Blair of Ontario, vice president; Daryle Fawcett of Ontario, secretary, and Steve Reed of Montclair, treasurer.

Interested persons may obtain additional informatin by calling Orvis at 624-4655.

Stop signs set for R.H. street

ROWLAND HEIGHTS—Stop signs will be installed on Camino Bello at Batson Avenue.

Ordered by the county Board of Supervisors, they will be installed by the road department.

Supervisor Peter Schabarum said the stop signs will increase safety by adding Camino Bello to those streets where motorists are already required to stop before entering Batson Avenue.

Hello!

To those of you I did not meet at shopping centers, parades, fiestas, park dedications, factories, meetings, coffee hours, candidate nights, union halls, classrooms, churches, banquets, and a host of other "people to people" events —

You have the right to demand that a candidate for public office make every effort to meet you personally instead of hiding behind billboards and professionally packaged campaigns. I have tried to meet that demand since:

"People Are My Special Interest"

It was a pleasure to meet and to talk with thousands of you who also received emeryboards, matches and Axelrod Consumer Protection Information Cards.

I ask you to continue this people to people relationship by making me your candidate for the State Assembly from the 65th District.

Angels looking for hitting help

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

ANAHEIM — If the Angels are going to remain a contender in the American League West, they need some more punch soon.

The Angels begin a nine-game tour through the East Tuesday night in Milwaukee needing some consistent established hitting to keep any hopes of staying near Oakland in the pennant race.

Norm Cash's eighth inning home run plus shutout pitching by Woodie Fryman and John Hiller gave the Detroit Tigers a 2-0 win over the Angels Sunday afternoon to knock the Halos 5½ games behind the World Champion Oakland A's.

Obviously, the Angels can't afford to fall too far behind the A's.

"It's obvious we need another bat," Angel skipper Bobby Winkles said after the shutout loss. "If you find one, let me know.

"We're willing to trade, but no one is willing to give us what we want. The races are so close in the American League that no one wants to help anybody else out."

Bobby Valentine is on the disabled list with a dislocated shoulder. Lee Stanton, who did contribute the Angels' only extra base hit with a double Sunday, is still not 100 per cent recovered from a broken wrist.

Frank Robinson, the veteran slugger, hasn't hit his groove yet this season as evidenced by four strikeouts Sunday.

Fryman and Hiller combined to hold the Angels to four hits Sunday while recording 10 strikeouts.

The Angels managed to advance a runner as far as third base only once when Fryman walked three batters in the second inning.

Detroit manager thought Fryman (2-3) had pitched enough after he walked Mickey Rivers with one out in the eighth inning. Hiller, who led the majors last year with 38 saves, came out of the bullpen to retire the final five Angel batters in order for his ninth save of the campaign.

Hiller, who had made a tremendous comeback after suffering a heart attack in 1971, has accounted for 14 of Detroit's 23 wins with his five victories and nine saves.

"It has really surprised me," Hiller said. "I was only an average pitcher before the heart attack."

The Angels wasted an outstanding pitching performance from surprise starter Dick Lange, who got the call because scheduled hurler Frank Tanana was scratched because of tenderness in his left elbow.

Cash broke up the scoreless battle after two outs in the eighth inning when he cracked a solo home run, his fourth of the season.

Detroit quickly added another run when Bill Freehan doubled for his fourth hit of the game and Mickey Stanley followed with a single.

ANGEL ANGLES — Bill Singer (7-3) will face rookie lefthander Kevin Kobel (3-3) in Tuesday's opener of the road trip at Milwaukee. Nolan Ryan (7-5) will battle Jim Slaton (6-6) Wednesday night with Lange (1-2) slated to pitch against Clyde Wright (5-6) Thursday afternoon.

Lewis upsets La Verne, 8-7

Leos facing sudden death

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — La Verne College lead-off man Hank Merenda stepped up to the plate in the first inning of Sunday's game, swung, hit the ball and fell down as he started to run to first.

It proved to be pathetic. The Leos had all kinds of troubles in the field.

Despite a game-tying rally in the ninth inning, the Leopards finally did themselves in on their own shaky base running and fielding here at Phil Welch Stadium.

La Verne appeared to have the momentum after scoring twice in the seventh inning and four times in the ninth to tie Lewis University, 7-7. But with two out in the last of the ninth, Lewis centerfielder Wally Onysio belted a Tim Kelly pitch to deep right field.

Wayne Redfearn, the fine freshman right fielder, chased it down, turned and fired wildly. The ball went into the general direction of third base but was way down the left field line. Onysio steamed around third and scored easily giving Lewis an 8-7 win.

The loss puts La Verne (35-8) in today's 3:30 p.m. (PDT) contest against Wisconsin-Oshkosh (28-10). The Titans eliminated Fort Hays State (26-18) by an 11-3 score in Sunday's early game.

A crest fallen Ben Hines found it difficult to talk. "What can you say? What IS there to say?" he asked. "I was pleased with the way we came back. I'm sorry we blew it, but we had our opportunities."

Indeed they did have their opportunities. For the second straight game, the Leopards got enough hits (12) and base runners (19). But they again had trouble moving the runners.

The Leos scored a run in the first inning. Paul Fleming drew a one out walk. Mike Alonso flied out, but Redfearn lined a single to right. Nick Leyva grounded a single down the third base line scoring Fleming. But Redfearn and Leyva were stranded when Art Sanchez flied out.

The Leopards got two more hits in the second. But the inning ended when Rich Fielder was out trying for third on a good throw from Lewis right fielder Steve Verban.

Alonso got a one-out single in the third, but Redfearn and Leyva were retired easily. That made five La Verne hits and four runners left on base in the first three innings.

In the fourth inning, Jesse Mendoza walked with one out, stole second and moved to third on a passed ball. But Don Snyder fanned. Fielder walked to put runners on first and third.

Merenda worked the count to 3-1, but Fielder took too long a lead off and was caught off base by Flyer hurlder Don Markelz. With Fielder in a rundown, Mendoza edged off third, but the alert Lewis first baseman, Ray Crowley, fired to third and Mendoza was tagged out.

Meanwhile Robb Mayhew was breezing on one hit. But the roof fell in on the La Verne lefthander in the fifth and sixth innings.

The first four batters Mayhew faced in the fifth inning came up with a double and three singles. Only one run scored, but the bases were loaded. George DiMatteo grounded a double play ball at Fielder. But the usually slick fielding second baseman first bobbled the ball then got his feet tangled and nearly fell down barely getting DiMatteo as another run scored.

Crowley drove in both runs with a sharp hit to right.

Mayhew left with two out in the sixth inning after giving up a two-run home run to Lewis catcher Steve Barnek, a .246 hitter, and walking DiMatteo and Crowley.

Jose Cardenal finds out way to hit Marshall

CHICAGO (UPI) — As a candidate for a PhD in physiological psychology, Los Angeles relief ace Mike Marshall has attempted to apply his studies to figuring out National League opponents.

Marshall's baffling screwball is the Dodger pitcher's solution to fooling his opponents.

Marshall's strategy, however, backfired Sunday. It happened in the bottom of the seventh when Jose Cardenal hit a three-run homer, erasing a 4-3 Dodger lead and powering the Chicago Cubs to a 7-6 win.

It was more than just another home run. It was the only homer Marshall has given up this season in 64 innings of relief work.

But the slim Cardenal, who admits to weighing 150 pounds, had Marshall "all figured out."

"Everyone knows that Marshall is a great pitcher," Cardenal said. "In fact, he may be the greatest in our league. And everyone knows he likes to throw the screwball. Well, he threw me three straight fastballs, all of which I took.

"With a one-and-two count on me I thought Marshall would try to unload a screwball. The object of a screwball from a righthanded pitcher is to break in on the righthanded batter so that he will hit it on his fists. I was waiting, however, and I took a step back and leaned into it.

"When I saw the ball start to break in, I started my swing. And luckily I made contact."

If Cardenal was feeling elated, so was his Spanish speaking teammate Horacio Pina. Pina replaced reliever Dave LaRoche in the ninth and was greeted with a single by pinch-hitter Ken McMullen to bring the Dodgers within one run and still nobody out.

But Pina got Jimmy Wynn and Steve Garvey to bounce to the mound and got Joe Ferguson on a game-ending popup.

Pina said, "I have had lots of chances this season, but I guess I haven't done too well. I was lucky because they were just getting the end of the bat on my slider.

"But, if you want to give credit to somebody, give it to Cardenal, who made two great catches in the eighth inning on long drives to the rightcenter power alley."

Even Cub pitcher Rick Reuschel, who picked up his fourth win against four losses, drew some praise. According to Manager Whitey Lockman, "Reuschel pitched the best ball he has all season even though he got tagged for nine hits."

The Dodgers return home Tuesday night to open a nine-game homestand against Pittsburgh, Chicago, and St. Louis.

Trojans sweep Waves to win District 8 title

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rich Dauer drove in eight runs with a pair of homers and a single in the nightcap of a doubleheader as University of Southern California beat Pepperdine 4-1 and 12-1 Sunday to capture the NCAA District 8 baseball title for the fifth straight year.

The Trojans, winners of four straight national championships, earned a trip to Omaha, Neb., where they will face District 6 champ Texas on Saturday.

For the doubleheader, the 6-foot, 180-pounder Dauer, from Colton, Calif., was 6-for-10 with 9 RBIs. The senior third baseman cracked his 14th and 15th homers of the season in the second game and increased his season RBI total to 87.

"There just happened to be men on base when I got my hits today," smiled the soft-spoken Dauer. "No, I've never had a day like this one."

USC, now 45-19, lost to the West Coast Athletic Conference champion Waves 4-2 Saturday and had to win twice Sunday in the best-of-three game series to earn the right to defend its national crown.

"Rich Dauer is definitely a major league prospect," said Trojan coach Rod Dedeaux. "And he has to be a unanimous college All-America selection."

In the opener, Dauer, who bats third in the USC lineup, doubled in his team's final run in the fifth inning.

Mark Barr, the younger brother of San Francisco Giants' starter Jim Barr, pitched a six-hitter to improve his record to 9-1. He struck out seven and walked one.

"I knew I had to win but I felt I could do it," said Barr. "I've been in that situation before."

Dauer, who was 3-for-6 in the finale, got the Trojans out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning of the second game when he lofted a Rich Mora fastball over the leftfield fence at Dedeaux Field.

He clubbed a three-run homer off Mora in the fifth inning that put USC ahead 6-0 and singled in two runs in the sixth to start a four-run Trojan inning.

Skip Walther perishes

By United Press International

Speed races, both on the land and in the water, took a toll of four lives in three continents Sunday.

In Miami, George "Skip" Walther, brother of Indianapolis car driver Salt Walther, was killed Sunday morning when he was thrown from his power boat in a practice run for the $30,000 Champion Spark Plug unlimited regatta.

The accident came little more than a year after Salt Walther was critically burned in the Indianapolis 500 auto race. Salt recovered, however, and finished 17th in the 1974 Indy last week.

Ironically, Skip Walther was entered only as a replacement for Jim McCormick, who suffered severely lacerated legs when he was thrown from his boat during a rest run on Thursday.

According to witnesses, Walther's boat "Redman" hit a wave and disappeared in a plume of spray at Miami Marine Stadium. The Dayton, Ohio, driver was recovered from the water and rushed to Jackson Memorial Hospital in Miami, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Doctors said he suffered a skull fracture and massive lacerations of the brain and his arm was severed at the elbow.

Walther was the first unlimited driver to be killed since Tommy Fults was killed in 1969 at San Diego.

Two Japanese auto drivers, Hiroshi Kazato and Seiichi Suzuki, were killed in a collision during the Fuji Grand Championship at Shizuoka, Japan, and a six-year-old boy was killed and his father seriously injured when a sports car shot into a crowd of spectators at Mainz, Germany.

The Japanese accident occurred shortly after the start when the Chevron B26 of Kazato crashed into the rail. Three other cars driven by Suzuki, Tokumitsu Urushibara and Gen Kitano crashed into Kazato's car, with Suzuki also perishing. Urushibara and Kitano escaped injuries.

Menne takes Kemper in sudden death play

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — For Bob Menne, an obscure Massachusetts native in his fifth year on the PGA tour, it was the dream of a lifetime. Victory in one of the tour's richest events, the $250,000 Kemper Open golf tournament.

"This makes life worthwhile," said the 32-year-old Menne, who defeated Californian Jerry Heard on the first extra hole of a sudden death playoff Sunday by sinking a 30-foot birdie putt.

"It's something I've been dreaming about since I was a little kid," he said. "It means everything—the Masters, the Tournament of Champions and the money, which we've never had."

Menne, who had to compete in an 18-hole qualifier just to get into the field of the designated tournament in which the game's biggest names were required to compete, pocketed a $50,000 first prize.

Heard, already victorious on the 1974 tour with a win in the Florida Citrus Open at Orlando, felt he played well and was far from disappointed at his 18-under-par showing of 270 for 72 holes.

"It just was not in the cards," said Heard, a happy-go-lucky Fresno State College dropout.

Menne sank a six-foot putt for a birdie on the final regulation hole, a 441-yard par 4, to draw even with Heard and send the tournament into a playoff.

"I knew the only chance I'd have was to make it," said Menne, who had an 18-hole score of 67 to Heard's 70 over the par 72, 7,085-yard Quail Hollow Country Club course.

Veteran Dave Hill, with a 65, only one stroke off the course record, was third at 271. Lee Trevino's 69 put him another shot back at 272.

At 273 were smooth-putting Billy Casper and lanky J.C. Snead, wearing a sombrero to ward off the hot afternoon sun, both with 69s.

Jack Nicklaus was eight strokes off the winning pace with a 70-278 and Masters champion Gary Player, victorious a week ago in the Memphis Classic, had a 72-286.

Johnny Miller, getting his game in shape for the U.S. Open, posted a final round 70 to finish at 280.

Both defending champion Tom Weiskopf and Arnold Palmer missed the cut, Palmer for the third week in a row, something that had never before happened in his career.

Menne seemed almost out of contention after three-putting the 14th hole, a 343-yard par 4, for his only bogey of the day.

"From then on, I tried to go for most of the pins," he said.

McGriff earns pole for 100

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UP) — Defending champion Hershel McGriff of Bridal Veil, Ore., earned the pole in the California 100 auto race Sunday, clocking 106.096 miles per hour.

The Cal 100 will be run at Riverside International Raceway next Sunday as a warm-up to the Tuborg 400 NASCAR event.

McGriff, 46, drove a '69 Chevelle. Sam Beler of Lakewood, Calif., driving a '61 Ford, finished second at 105.385 m.p.h. Bill Spencer of Anaheim was third at 103.991 in his '64 Chevy.

Ron Esau of san Diego placed fourth at 103.648 m.p.h. and Richard White, Escondido, Calif., was fifth at 103.059.

Kazato was scheduled to leave soon for Hockenheim, West Germany, to participate in a Formula 2 race.

Pincay rides to four more Hollypark wins

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Is Laffit Pincay taking the fun out of thoroughbred racing?

If you don't have your money down on the 27-year-old jockey from Panama, that's definitely the case.

Pincay rode four more winners at Hollywood Park Sunday, giving him 29 for the last nine days here and 83 for the first 40 days of the 76-day meeting.

He boosted the earnings of his mounts this year to more than $2 million when he drove lightly regarded Battery E. to a surprise victory in the $63,800 Argonaut Handicap for 3-year-olds.

"I asked the trainer (Keith Stucki) to put blinkers on this horse after I rode him the last time because he wasn't concentrating," Pincay said. "And it really made a difference."

Battery E., which paid $16.20 to win, finished a length in front of Stardust Mel in 1:47 4-5 for the mile and one-eighth test.

Agitate, the 3-5 favorite, was seven lengths back in third place.

"I had plenty of chance to win it," said Bill Shoemaker, Agitate's jockey, "but my horse just wasn't up to it."

The victory was worth $36,800 to Battery E.'s owner Mrs. Ruth Mangini.

For Pincay, the win pushed the earnings of his mounts in 1974 to $2,017,009. That puts him slightly ahead of his pace of a year ago when he set an alltime mark with earnings of $4,093,402.

Pincay figures to pick up where he left off when racing resumes at Hollywood Park Wednesday. He is scheduled to ride unbeaten Miss Tokyo in the $25,000 Cygnet Stakes for 2-year-old fillies at five and one-half furlongs.

Bradshaw to stay with Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — After spurning "a tremendous offer" from the New York Stars of the World Football League, quarterback Terry Bradshaw has signed a new multi-year contract with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The length of the contract or the amount the veteran starter will be paid by the National Football League club were not disclosed at the news conference held Sunday to announce the contract signing.

Borg claims Open crown

ROME (UPI) — Bjorn Borg of Sweden, playing with two hours rest from the finish of his semifinal today, defeated defending champion Ilie Nastase of Romania 6-3, 6-4, 6-2, to win the Italian Open tennis championship.

The blond, lanky Swede, who will turn 18 in two weeks, put the match away on his first championship point, forcing Nastase into a hurried shot which went into the net.

Borg's powerful double-fisted backhand passed Nastase time and again and left the Romanian, who won in Rome in 1970 and 1973, unable to mount his usual attack.

Borg broke Nastase's first service in the second game of the first set and held on to take the set.

Nastase looked more his old self in the second set, taking his services in the first and third games at love and running the young Swede all over the court. The two players traded service breaks twice in the fifth through the eighth games. Borg finally broke Nastase in the ninth and then took the second set on his first set point, another sizzling backhand which passed Nastase charging the net.

Borg broke Nastase's first serve in the final set and then broke him again at love in the seventh with Nastase doublefaulting the final game point.

Earlier today Borg had his problems in overcoming unseeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina in a semifinal which had been delayed from Sunday.

Borg finally broke Vilas' service in the 11th game of the fifth set to win 2-6, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5.

Leos waste great rally in 8-7 loss

Kelly, the Santa Clara sophomore, got out of the inning without any further damage. In three innings of relief he struck out two, gave up two hits and didn't walk anyone. The youngster, now 1-1, deserved a better fate.

Alonso's two-run homer in the seventh made it a 7-3 game.

Things looked dark going into the ninth but a single by Fielder and Merenda's double sent Markelz to the showers. Jerry Quigley (2-5) replaced Markelz and walked Fleming to load the bases.

Alonso and Redfearn both popped to second. Leyva's walk forced in Fielder. Sanchez worked the count to 3-2 and then smashed a shot to left field scoring all three runners and tying the game 7-7.

The Leo players erupted from the dugout but their joy was shortlived. Dave Long bunted and was thrown out by Quigley.

As suddenly as the momentum changed in the top of the ninth, it changed again in the bottom and the game was over.

Now the Leos will be put to the ultimate test. Champions come back. If the Leopards are of championship calibre, they'll shake the memory of this game and play the way they're capable of playing.

TOURNNAMENT TOPICS — Tne number one Lecpards weren't the only team upset Sunday. Second ranked David Lipscomb fell 4-0 to fifth ranked Sam Houston State . . .

David Lipscomb (46-10) was slated to meet Point Park (18-4 at 1:30 p.m. today. La Verne will send Dan Quisenberry (11-2) against Wisconsin-Oshkosh at 5:30 p.m. Sam Houston (40-9) will play seventh rated Lewis (37-12) at 8 p.m. . . .

Attendance improved to 1,341 Sunday night. Steve Verban of Lewis is the son of former St. Louis Cardinal second baseman Emil Verban . . .

Bill Arce of Claremont Mudd: "That was a shame. But the way things changed quickly there in the ninth is just the way baseball goes."

Nogales playing for baseball title

LA PUENTE — Of the nine starting Nogales High varsity baseball team members, seven are seniors and will be graduating with honors.

Perhaps their honors have come for scholastic achievements but they're spending their final high school year with definite honors for their baseball prowess.

The Nobles, coached by former Nogales student Mike Cook, play Lompoc for the 3-A CIF championship Tuesday at 5:15 p.m. at Anaheim Stadium.

Starting pitcher for Tuesday's historical endeavor will be righthander Bob Salas. The senior and three-year varsity letterman boasts a 11-1 record and 0.70 earned run average.

The other Noble starters include Darrell Clark, center field; Mario Rojas, catcher; Lou Johnson, right field; Dean Olson, first base; John Ekman, left field; Sam Perez, third base; Ron Gomez, short stop; and Robert Martinez, second base.

Nogales (25-4), which captured the Montview League title, (11-3) has breezed through four playoff opponents allowing just three runs in 28 innings. Salas (6 innings) and Olson (1 inning) teamed up to no-hit Monrovia in a first round 4-0 win with Olson coming back to stop Norwalk 12-0 on five hits. Salas blanked Upland 3-0 on one hit and Olson stopped El Segundo 8-3.

Cook credits "good pitching, clutch hitting, and a general overall team effort" for the Nobles' first showing in CIF competition in the 12-year history of the school.

Aztecs enjoy sixth victory

By ADRIAN MERCADO
P-B Correspondent

LOS ANGELES — Sugar Ray Robinson was cheered by the 6,184 soccer fans at the East L.A. College Stadium as he kicked the soccer ball during opening ceremonies.

As it turned out the fans were still cheering at the conclusion of the game as the Los Angeles Aztecs won their sixth consecutive match against the Miami Toros, 2-1, on last minute goal by Lucius Marotte.

The Toros proved to be the toughest foes the locals have faced in North American Soccer League competition. Their defense, led by Ralph Wright was almost impenetrable as they played a rugged game guarding the Aztec forwards at arms length. Their forward line boasted of Waren Archibland, the MVP in the NASL last season.

The Aztecs, suffering from injuries, made a first minute attempt to score when fullback De Rienzo's 20-yarder from the right side barely missed the left post. Twenty-three minutes later Uri Banhoffer, being used as a midfielder instead of his usual striker position, weaved his way past the defense only to shoot wide. Teammate Peter Filotis also broke past the defense, but again shot wide two minutes later.

The Toros counter attacked at the 30-minute mark when distance thrower Steve Bowman, former Penn soccer star, let go a throwin that caught Aztec goalie Blas Sanchez going the wrong way. The ball sailed over Sanchez's head and the Toro's open shot was repelled at the goal line by Ricardo De Rienzo — again the Toros shot and this time it was UCLA's Jose Lopez who tapped the ball away as it was making its way into the goal.

At the 39-minute point, Archibald and Steve David combined to break past the defense taking a leaping dive by goalie Sanchez to deflect the ball away from the net.

The Aztecs came back at the 44th minute when Luis Marotte short dribbled and let go a shot that Toro goalie Osvaldo Toriani pushed over the cross bar.

Just before Referee Henry Landau blew the concluding whistle of the opening half, striker Steve David faked, passed, and outran defender Julio Cesar Cortez and easily fooled goalie Sanchez to put the visitors ahead 1-0 at halftime.

The local "tangerine kids," after an unimpressive first half became fired-up for the closing half. Coach Alex Peroli made a change by switching Banhoffer to striker and Tony Douglas to midfielder as neither one was very impressive in the former position.

The Aztecs took command right from the start of the second half but at the 63rd minute Steve David, poorly guarded by Cortez, picked up the ball and passed to Warren Archibald; Cortez again did not follow up on the play and goalie Sanchez had to use all his skills to avoid a sure goal.

At the 65th minute, Tony Douglas, famous for his powerful long distance drives, let one go from 20 yards out that was deflected over the Toro goal by Toriani.

As the game wore on, play became more physical and tempers began to flare. At the 73rd minute of play, right fullback Ricardo de Rienzo and Toro striker Steve David were ejected from the game for fighting.

With 16 minutes remaining in the game, midfleider Luis Marotte got the ball 30 yards out, dribbled to his left to draw the defense to him and passed perfectly to little Peter Filotis; Filotis took the pass seven yards out and shot low to the right of a diving Toriani to tie the game.

With two minutes remaining and Aztec announcer Mario Machado giving the fans overtime information, the Aztecs were awarded a free kick. Tony Douglas took the shot from about the 30 yard line. The ball floated toward the front line as Luis Marotte who had anticipated a harder shot found himself ahead of the ball. In Pele fashion, Marotte gently heel-kicked the ball in flight over his left shoulder, and on the run half-vollied the ball into the Toro goal for the game winning goal for what has to be the most spectacular individual play of the year in the NASL.

The Aztecs go on the road for a Wednesday game against the Boston Minutemen and a Sunday game against the only other undefeated NASL team the Rochester Lancers. Both games will be televised on Channel 22; Wednesday's game will be shown at 9:30 p.m. and Sunday's game at noon.

Walnut Reds whip Rowland in SGVL play

LA PUENTE — The Walnut Reds of the San Gabriel Valley Thoroughbred League erupted for 10 runs in the sixth inning Sunday afternoon at Rowland High School to rout Rowland Heights 23-9 in a league encounter.

Coach Terry Murphy's Reds pounded three Rowland pitchers for 13 hits, including seven for extra bases, and utilized eight errors, seven walks and three hit batters to up their season record to 6-1 and league slate to 2-0.

Marty Sheppard once again led the hit parade with four hits in six trips to the plate, including a double and two triples, and drove in eight runs to run his season total to 20 ribbies. He's batting .515, 17-for-33.

Sefo Purcell joined in the onslaught with four hits in six at-bats, including a home run, and drove in five runs to give him 13 on the summer. He's now batting .481 (13-27). Mark Canavan (.320) added two hits in three at-bats.

Bill Fleming (2-1), 1-0) was given 10 runs to work with before Paul Kline relieved the southpaw in the fourth. Because Walnut was leading by more than 12 runs after five innings the game was called after six frames.

Walnut, who has, now scored 111 runs in its seven games, is batting .393 with its nine-man regulars.

The Reds will try to make it three straight league wins Tuesday night at 5:30 p.m. when they visit Charter Oak No. 1 at Charter Oak High.

American League roundup

Gaylord Perry drying up act

By United Press International

Gaylord Perry has dried up his act but opposing American League batters may still ask him to take a saliva test.

Perry, who has admitted to throwing spitters in the past, was forced to change his routine this season after baseball's rules committee decided over the winter to make it easier for umpires to warn, and then even eject, pitchers for throwing the outlawed pitch.

Since going dry this year, the Cleveland Indians' veteran has won nine games in a row after losing the season-opener and has thrown nine complete games, including Sunday's 5-2 victory over Kansas City when he stopped the Royals on six hits.

"I was disgusted with my control today," said the 35-year-old Perry who walked six batters but has now allowed only five runs in his last 45 innings of work and run his route-going performance streak to five. "I had a good forkball but I got behind too many hitters."

"I can't say this is the best start I've had,' added Perry, "because in 1966 I was 20-2 with San Francisco at one point in the season." He finished that campaign with a 21-8 mark.

Perry was traded to Cleveland by San Francisco after the 1971 season. He won the American League's Cy Young Award with a 24-16 record in his first campaign with the Indians and posted a 19-19 mark last year. He credits the Indians' improved defense with his brilliant start this season.

Part of that improved defense was shown in the eighth inning when rightfielder Charlie Spikes threw out the Royals' fleet Amos Otis who tried to score from second base on a single by Hal McRae.

Leron Lee, who drove in five runs for Cleveland Saturday with a grand slam homer and a solo blast, continued his hot hitting Sunday when he smashed his third homer of the season in the first inning to tie the score 1-1. Back-to-back homers by Oscar Gamble and Dave Duncan highlighted a three-run uprising by Cleveland in the fourth when the Indians chased losing pitcher Paul Splittorff.

Elsewhere in the AL, Oakland beat Milwaukee 6-4, Boston outlasted Chicago 9-7, New York thrashed Minnesota 11-1, Detroit blanked California 2-0 and Baltimore edged Texas 6-5 in 10 innings.

A's 6, Brewers 4

Joe Rudi crashed a three-run homer and Reggie Jackson smacked his 14th and 15th homers in leading Oakland over Milwaukee. The triumph was the fourth in a row and 17th in the last 23 games for the A's and gave them a 3½ game lead in the West. Jim Hunter, with help from Rollie Fingers over the final 1 1-3 innings, gained credit for his eighth victory. Bob Coluccio homered for Milwaukee.

Red Sox 8, White Sox 7

Rico Petrocelli drove in four runs with a pair of homers to lead Boston past Chicago. Tommy Harper chipped in with a two-run homer for the Red Sox who upped their lead in the East to 1½ games by winning for the 11th time in the last 14 games. Dick Allen hit his 10th homer for Chicago.

Yankees 11, Twins 1

Three-run homers by Rick Dempsey and Ron Blomberg and Lou Piniella's solo shot highlighted a seven-run sixth inning for New York in its win over Minnesota. Mel Stottlemyre scattered six hits to even his record at 6-6 and break a personal five-game losing streak.

Orioles 6, Rangers 5

Rich Coggins drove in pinchrunner Al Bumbry from second base in the 10th inning to give Baltimore its win over Texas and allow relief pitcher Wayne Garland to gain his first major league triumph. Garland, making his third appearance for the Orioles since being brought up from Rochester, pitched six innings of two-hit relief and walked only one. Jeff Burroughs hit his 12th homer for the Rangers while Mark Belanger and Bobby Grich homered for Baltimore.

National League roundup

Luzinski finds right pitch to trip San Francisco, 4-3

By United Press International

The Philadelphia Phillies joked about whether Greg Luzinski was thinking or guessing Sunday but it was no laughing matter to Randy Moffitt and the San Francisco Giants.

The 6-foot, 1-inch, 220-pound Luzinski jumped on Moffitt's first pitch after coming in from the bullpen Sunday to hit a two-run homer which climaxed a four-run eighth inning rally and gave the Phillies a 4-3 victory over the Giants. The win kept the Phillies in a virtual tie with the St. Louis Cardinals for first place in the National League East.

Luzinski explained after the game how he had out-thought (or out-guessed) the San Francisco reliever.

"I faced him in the Pacific Coast League and the big leagues and he's been tough on me," said Luzinski. "He likes to get ahead of you with his fast ball and then go to his breaking stuff.

"I was looking for a fast ball on the first pitch," added Luzinski. "And I hit it good."

The homer, Luzinski's fifth of the season, was a tremendous drive to straightaway center field and brought ex-San Francisco reliever Frank Linzy his third win. The Giants are in fifth place in the NL West, 11 games out of first place.

The Chicago Cubs defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers, 7-6, the Cardinals topped the San Diego Padres 9-6, the Cincinnati Reds beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-1, and the Atlanta Braves drubbed the Montreal Expos, 9-0, in other NL games. Houston at New York was rained out.

Bill Robinson opened the Philadelphia eighth by reaching first on an error by Dave Kingman and went to third on Dave Cash's double. Larry Bowa lined to short but Robinson scored when Chris Speier threw wild trying to double up Cash. Mike Schmidt followed with a run-scoring single which knocked out John D'Acquisto and brought in Linzy to pitch to Luzinski.

Cardinals 9 Padres 6

The Cardinals scored their tie-breaking run in the eighth when Vicente Romo walked Ken Reitz with the bases filled and Reggie Smith followed with a two-run single. The Cardinals went into the eighth trailing 6-5 but scored four unearned runs as they tagged Romo with the loss. Reliever Orlando Pena won his third decision against no losses. The win kept the Cardinals .002 points ahead of the second-place Phillies in the NL East.

Reds 5 Pirates 1

Fred Norman and Pedro Borbon combined in a fivehitter and Tony Perez homered in the Reds' win over the Pirates. Norman, now 5-5, shut out the Pirates on two hits before complaining of a pulled muscle in his right side and giving way to Borbon. Bruce Kison was the loser.

Braves 9 Expos 0

Craig Robinson drove in three runs with a double and a single and Rowland Office homered for the Braves who dealt Steve Rogers his fourth defeat. Buzz Capra yielded 10 hits and two walks but went the route for his fourth win of the year.

BRIAN REDMAN soared to victory Sunday in the fourth annual Formula 5,000 Sports Car race at the Mid-Ohio Sports Car course in Lexington (Ohio).

Montclair, Upland post Legion wins

Montclair and Upland registered District 25 American Legion baseball wins Sunday afternoon while Claremont suffered a District 18 setback to South Pasadena.

Dale Biggs powered Montclair Post 616 to a 12-1 rout of Apple Valley at Montclair High.

The big third baseman blasted two-run homers in the first inning and again in the seventh. He also tripled to start a three-run sixth frame.

The Cal Poly freshman now has hit three homers and driven in six runs while collecting six hits in 12 at-bats for a .500 mark.

Lefty Don Pierce (2-0) had a no-hitter going until the eighth until Apple Valley used two hits to push across its only run.

Montclair, 3-2 overall and 2-1 in Division 1 play, meets prefavorite Redlands Post 650 Wednesday before facing rugged Upland Post 73 Friday.

Upland Legion scored eight times in the first inning Sunday en route to a 14-1 rout of Redlands Post 106.

Frank Pastore (2-0) and Ed Hale limited the No. 2 Redlands team to just five hits while combining for 11 strikeouts.

Mark Schneekluth, John Pignotti and Russ Feaster all collected three singles each to pace the Pizza Palace sponsored team to its third straight District 25, Division II wins.

Steve Smith got the locals rolling with a three-run first inning home run to center.

South Pasadena Post 140 got off to an early District 18 lead at the expense of Claremont Post 78 Sunday.

Claremont started the day by dropping an 8-7 10-inning decision to complete Saturday nights suspended game, only to lose its regularly scheduled game 11-9.

South Pasadena catcher John Colliu was thrust into the heroes mold as he doubled with two outs in the 10th inning of the suspended game and scored the winning run on Fred Moore's pinch single.

Colliau doubled home two runs and scored the third run in the fifth inning of the second game to retake the lead 9-7.

Claremont scored twice in the seventh to tie but So. Pasadena won the contest with two in the eighth off freshman Paul Sokolowski (2-1, 0-1).

Sokolowski went 5 1-3 innings in relief of starter John Huddleston who was roughed up for six runs in two innings.

Todd Ervin, Harry Brown and Tony Janus were the hitting stars for the Cards.

Ervin went five-for-six in the 11-9 loss and wound up 7-for-11 for the two games. The shortstop homered, drove in five runs and scored four runs while raising his average from .367 to .439.

The Claremont High star, who is working on becoming a switch-hitter under coach Jack Helber, is four-for-10 so far as a right hand hitter including one homer.

Brown finished the two-game series going five-for-10 with three RBi's and three runs scored. Janusz wound up the series going five-for-11 with three ribbies and two runs scored.

The Cards rapped out 28 hits in the two games but were guilty of six errors and three catchers' interference calls that led to seven of So. Pasadena's eight runs in the suspended game.

Diamond Bar, Ted Greene remain close

Diamond Bar and Ted Greene kept pace with league-leading San Dimas Sunday afternoon in Big League action.

Diamond Bar routed Pomona American No. 2, 11-1, while Ted Greene edged Pomona American No. 1, 3-2, in a pitcher's battle. DB, now 4-2, and TG (5-2) remain within a game off the pace of league leading San Dimas (5-1).

Steve Reinhardt (1-0) hurled a four-hitter and added two hits to lead Diamond Bar over American No. 2. Reinhardt went the distance striking out nine and walking two to record his first decision of the year. Teammate Don Fleetwood chimed in with two hits in four at-bats, including a pair of doubles, and drove in three runs.

Dale Higley's third inning single drove home John Andrzejewski with American's only run of the game.

Dale Coleman singled home Stacy Baird and Chuck Mitchell with the tying and winning run in the second inning as Ted Greene edged Pomona American No. 1.

Dave Guerra led off the frame with a double and pinch rhnner Robert Moore was sacrificed to third by Randy Babineau. Baird walked and Mitchell lofted a high fly to center that was dropped for an error to allow Moore to score the first run of the inning.

Coleman then singled to score Baird and Mitchell from second and third, respectively.

Allen Wells started for TG and went three innings allowing two runs. Babineau went the final four frames allowing just three hits to pick up the win. He's now 2-0.

American scored its first run in the second as Robbie Franklin walked and stole second. Frank Broyles singled him home.

American's final run scored in the third as Ron Rodriquez' walk and Pete Mendez' double.

Bruce Black was the victim of the defeat, despite allowing just three hits.

Arizona State recruits top receiver

DALLAS (UPI) — John Washington, the most prolific pass receiver in the history of Texas high school football, has decided to attend Arizona State, known for its potent offense.

Washington, a 9.6 sprinter who caught 140 passes for 2,973 yards and 36 touchdowns in three years and was voted the state's most highly sought high school recruit, announced Saturday he plans to attend Arizona State.

Engineers and Wives install new officers

The East San Gabriel Valley Chapter of the California Society of Professional Engineers and the Wives of Professional Engineers have installed officers for the coming year.

Glen Wilson, CSPE vice president, south, installed the officers of both groups at ceremonies in Griswold's, Claremont. During the evening, Jim Sharpsteen reviewed the early history of the San Gabriel Valley Chapter. Many past officers and members commented on the establishment of the group.

Serving as chapter officers for the 15th year are Douglas Hildenbrandt, president; Leland D. King, first vice president; Delmar Walters, second vice president; William Gelling, state director and past president; Stanley Scholl, secretary; Robert Gottier, treasurer, and Melvin Belcher, Lowell Brandt and John Keim, directors.

Officers of the Wives of Professional Engineers are Mrs. William Gelling president; Mrs. Robert Gottier, vice president; Mrs. Cornelius Van Dam, recording secretary; Mrs. Bob Roberson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Robert Scheffler, treasurer; Mrs. Leland D. King, Mrs. Delmar Walters and Mrs. Edwin Williams, directors.

BPW to meet Tuesday eve

Montclair Heights Business and Professional Women's Club will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Suntown Convalescent Hospital, 9670 Fremont Ave., Montclair.

The program for the coming year will be discussed during the evening.

Missionary to address Methodists

Trinity United Methodist Women will meet Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. in the church chapel.

Dr. Marie Bale of Redlands will be the speaker. She served as a missionary with the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church for 17 years. Her last assignment was at the Woman's University of Seoul, Korea, concluded in 1970.

Previous missionary service by Dr. Bale was at the International University in Tokyo, Japan, and Isabella Thorburn College in Lucknow, India. She is now serving as president of the Redlands area Church Women United.

Luncheon will be served after the meeting.

DAR slates installation in Claremont

Claremont Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will meet for luncheon and installation of officers at Griswold's Indian Hill Thursday at noon.

Luncheon reservations are to be made with Mrs. Francis A. McKee, outgoing regent and Mrs. Fred W. Juergens, the vice regent.

Mrs. Juergens will be installed as regent by Mrs. Joseph Viznak, past regent of San Antonio Chapter and vice chairman of the national committee on resolutions.

Serving with Mrs. Juergens will be: Mrs. Calvin H. Mullen, recording secretary; Mrs. Lawrence Gillette, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Aris C. Sanders, treasurer; Mrs. H. Glenn Wallace, registrar; Mrs. Arthur Jaynes, historian; Mrs. Arthur McIntosh, librarian.

Reports of the continental congress held in Washington will be given, as well as state conference reports. Mrs. Juergens served as a member of the state resolutions committee.

Atchleys celebrate anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William Wayne Atchley of Pomona celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday when their children held a surprise party for them.

The Atchleys were married June 5, 1945, at St. Luke's Church in Temple City. Among the guests was Mrs. Rosemary Coleman of Lakewood who had been maid of honor at the marriage of the couple.

The dinner party with 40 friends and relatives in attendance was held in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Greg Cole in Ontario.

Mr. Atchley is employed as a salesman for Alis Chalmers Fork Lifts.

Their children are: Steve, Mrs. Janet Cole, Jon, Gloria, Elaine, Richard and Gary.

ETHEL BASTIEN

Local YLI to honor president

Pomona 143, Young Ladies Institute, will honor the grand president of YLI, Mrs. Ethel Bastien, on her final official visit June 9.

Portfolio has balanced fund

By ROGER SPEAR

Q — I retire in about 12 years and would like to invest in mutual funds: I have some shares of Chemical Fund, but am interested in Reserve Fund and David L. Babson. Please give me your opinion. — E.H.

A — You seem to be doing very well on your own. Chemical Fund and David L. Babson Investments were among the top 25 performers (based on total returns) for both the latest and 10-year periods. Reserve Fund, which strives to provide maximum income from short-term money market instruments, has been in operation about 18 months and has an excellent record for that period. This no-load fund, as of the end of the first quarter of 1974, had assets of $150 million and yielded an annualized average rate of 8.44 per cent for that period.

Chemical Fund invests in the common or convertible securities of high-quality science-oriented companies. Founded in 1938, this load fun has aassets of close to $900 million under management, with about 10 per cent of this in cash at last report. The no-load Babson fund has grown since its founding in 1959 to a $142 million fund. Its predominantly blue chip common stock portfolio also contains a smattering of junior growth stocks. With investments in these three diverse funds, you will have assembled a well-balanced investment cushion for growth with income.

Q — We are in the 42 per cent tax bracket with $15,000 of this from interest on certificates of deposit and FHA notes. Should we invest in tax-exempt municipal bonds instead? — T.Y.

A — That would appear to make sense in your case. Newly issued AAA-rated tax-exempt bonds are being offered at prices to yield about 5.3 per cent to 5.4 per cent. In your tax bracket this yield is equivalent to 9.1 per cent to 9.3 per cent in taxable income. If your state exempts interest on its own municipal issues, it would be advisable to buy one of the high-rated general obligations or highway bonds of your state. Ratings which are published on tax-exempt issues provide a guideline as to the security of the sponsoring agency.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The Dow Jones industrial average will bottom this summer somewhere in the vicinity of 550 to 600," predicts Lynch, Jones & Ryan. Although the major price indices continue to make new lows, the firm says each successive low shows no signs of a significant bottom. "The ability to remain patient and refrain from the purchase of stocks has been profitable so far and will be more so during the upcoming months," it adds.

"With various stock markets falling apart at the seams, one can only wonder what new financial horrors lie ahead," according to the Dines Letter. It urges investors "to head for the hills" but says the oversold condition of the market could prompt a rally in June or July. "With only 17 per cent of our technical indicators bullish, we see no reason to try to buck this horrendous situation," the letter adds.

Despite the gloom hanging over the current market scene, the foundation is being built for a new bull cycle, says Indicator Digest, Inc. of Palisades Park, N.J. The firm's Specialist Short Sales Ratio has dropped to its lowest level since 1970, the firm says, indicating institutions are glutted with cash reserves. "Just a little of this money working its way into the market has produced the recent sharp rallies in selected groups," it continues, "and when the tide is unleashed in earnest, buying on the part of funds, banks, insurance companies and their cohorts will sweep stock prices much higher."

"The market has been actively supporting our thesis that a major base is under construction despite some shorter-term fluctuations," says Indicator Digest, Inc. of Palisades Park, N.J. Even in this ever-changing market climate, numerous issues have racked up gains and merely pulled back to good support in the latest decline, the firm notes. "Much of the excess water has already been wrung out," it adds, "leaving many sound issues little —if any —downside potential."

"Investor psychology seems to have reached that extreme in pessimism and negativeness where the good issues are being indiscriminately sold with the bad," according to E.F. Hutton & Co. Such investor attitudes may have terminal implications for this downleg, the firm says. In addition, signs of a pick-up in volume and the historical pattern begun in the early 1960's of downswings ending in late May could bode well for the future direction of the market, it adds.

The easing of inflation and high interest rates in the second half of 1974 may send stock prices higher because profits will go down, says Inverness Counsel, Inc. In the security markets, speculation is at a minimum and investors' expectations have been trimmed significantly, the firm continues. "While seemingly not a very exciting appraisal, it is the classic description of the psychological foundation of a bull market," it adds.

Patty Hearst story...

this kind of behavior in the face of flames."

Patty Hearst was in the house the day before.

A neighbor, James Johnson, 18, said he spent about half an hour talking with her.

"She looked fine," Johnson said. "She acted like a beautiful person to me, real intelligent and all. She told me she was with them, on their side.

"She told me, 'they'll have to kill me before I go back —I'm not going back there (to her parents in Hillsborough)."

She was last seen with William and Emily Harris near Los Angeles' Griffith Park in the last of four cars they commandeered. They had driven around for hours and Patricia told a high school boy they abducted briefly that she had not been a party to her kidnaping.

Matthews said she told him she decided to stay with the SLA because she was "disappointed" at her father's free food program.

Psychologists and psychiatrists will be attempting for years to determine scientifically how Patty was transformed.

Her father had this to say:

"There is a lot of difference in somebody volunteering and joining an organization and somebody that's kidnaped...One of the psychologists said that they had some trouble getting some stewardesses to testify against some of the hijackers because in the 36 to 48 hours they were together on that plane there was sort of an empathy built up between them."

Four psychiatric experts on brainwashing and youth rebellion agreed in interviews with UPI that Patricia probably was not brainwashed but that the kidnaping might have triggered a rapid, drastic change in her personality.

Dr. Seymour Halleck, psychiatry professor at the University of North Carolina, saw the phenomenon at Madison Wis., where police injured 70 persons breaking up a campus antiwar demonstration.

"In my interviews with many of the kids who witnessed it, seeing that violence was a major factor in a significant breakthrough in changing their political orientation," Halleck said. "I've seen a lot of kids turn rather quickly against their parents."

Dr. John P. Spiegel of Brandeis University, president of the American Psychiatric Association, said it was possible to undergo dramatic personality alteration without brainwashing particularly if someone is thrown into a group like the SLA, isolated and living in constant danger.

Dr. J. L. West, chairman of psychiatry at UCLA, who has studied brainwashing among captured U.S. fliers in the Korean War, said that "in circumstances of complete isolation, total dependence on a small group and constant exposure to their feelings, it has been demonstrated again and again that people behave quite unlike what you would expect."

Dr. Robert Jay Lifton, psychiatry professor at Yale and an authority on "thought control" in China, said he had seen young people undergo rapid, significant change without brainwashing.

Two important factors, he said, could be "a sense of guilt over one's background ... and some kind of aspiration toward change or an idealistic inclination that might be tapped by conflict and fear."

Last weekend Randolph Hearst said he had not given up hope but he now feels Patty believes in what she is doing.

"I think it happened as a result of duress," he said. "This apparently can happen when a victim has no hope, when the only salvation for the victim is the oppressor."

Man held on suspicion of murder

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A 24-year-old man was booked on suspicion of murder Sunday in connection with the shooting death of Efrain Guerra, 45, Los Angeles.

Police said Pirut Saelao, Los Angeles, was taken into custody after allegedly shooting Guerra outside the victim's house.

Police said Saelao came to the house to talk to Guerra's son. The son, Efrain Guerra Jr., 21, refused to talk to Saelao when he saw Saelao was carrying a .22-caliber rifle, police said.

According to authorities, the elder Guerra, thinking Saelao was gone, went outside and was shot. Police said Saelao himself was wounded four times by the younger Guerra, who came to his father's aid.

Saelao was hospitalized in critical condition. Young Guerra was not held.

Two youths die in auto accidents

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two teen-agers were killed and another critically injured early Sunday in two separate accidents when their automobiles crashed into metal barricades.

Authorities said Alfonso Garcia Jr., 18, Simi Valley, was killed when he ran a red light in Northridge and crashed into a steel barricade marking a deadend street. Police said the youth was driving at a high speed when the crash occurred.

His passenger, Dale Stanaway, 18, also of Simi Valley, was critically injured. He was taken to Northridge Hospital.

In the second accident, Connan Arthur Humphrey, 19, Granda Hills, lost control of his car on a small canyon road near Malibu and hit the steel wall of a highway tunnel.

He died at Westlake Hospital.

Arsonist sets number of fires

WEST HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — An arsonist set a number of fires within a 24 hour period, firemen said Sunday, with one fire causing an estimated $22,000 damage to a furniture firm.

Authorities said none of the other fires was as serious as the one at the furniture store. That blaze also damaged a massage parlor next door.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO SELL REAL PROPERTY AT PRIVATE SALE
No. EAP-10643
SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA
COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES.

In the Matter of the Estate of FANNIE JESSEN, Deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, subject to confirmation of the above court, on June 10, 1974, at 9:00 a.m., or as soon thereafter as allowed by law, the undersigned, as Executor of the above estate, will sell at private sale to the highest and best net bidder on the terms and conditions hereinafter mentioned, all right, title and interest of Jannie Jessen, deceased, at the time of her death, and all right, title and interest that the estate has acquired in addition to that of decedent at the time of her death, in the real property located in the County of Los Angeles, State of California known as 145, 147, 149 and 151 S. College Avenue, Claremont, California, more particularly known as:

That portion of Lot 7 of the Northeast Pomona Tract in the City of Claremont, as per map recorded in Book 5, Page 461 of Miscellaneous Records of Los Angeles County, EXCEPT THEREFROM, the North 56.5 feet and also EXCEPT that portion of said land included within College Avenue.

Said sale is subject to current covenants, conditions, restrictions, reservations, rights of way, and easements of record, any encumbrances or taxes of record to be paid out of the purchase price.

Said property is to be sold on an "AS IS" basis, except as to title.

Bids for offers are invited for this property and must be in writing and will be received at the office of WILLIAM E. DENNIS, Attorney at Law, 212 Yale Avenue, Claremont, Ca. 91711, or may be filed with the Clerk of said Superior Court, or delivered to WILLIAM E. DENNIS, personally, at any time after first publication of this notice and before making said sale.

The property will be sold on the following terms:

1. Cash or part cash and part credit, the terms of such credit to be acceptable to the undersigned and to the Court.

2. Ten (10) percent (%) of the amount of the bid shall accompany the offer by certified check and the balance to be paid on confirmation of sale by the Court and close of escrow.

3. Taxes, rents, operating and maintenance expenses, and premiums on insurance acceptable to the purchaser, shall be prorated as of the date of recording of conveyance.

4. The seller shall provide the Buyer with a title policy.

5. All other expenses shall be pro-rated in the usual business manner.

6. The Executor of the Estate shall reserve the right to reject any and all bids prior to entry of an Order Confirming the sale of the said real property.

Dated: May 30, 1974.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF INTENT TO DEED TO STATE

In pursuance of law, public notice is hereby given that, on the 1st day of July, 1974, at the hour of 8 o'clock a.m., of that day, the undersigned (Acting) Tax Collector of the County of Los Angeles, at his office in the City of Los Angeles, State of California, will deed to the State, unless sooner redeemed, or an installment plan of redemption is initiated, as provided by law, such installment plan must be initiated prior to 5 o'clock p.m. on the last business day of June, 1974, the real property hereinafter described upon which date five or more years will have elapsed from the date of the sale of said property to the State. The amount for which the deed will be issued will be the total amount due for which it was sold to the State, said amount being set forth in dollars and cents opposite the description of the property. If the property is deeded to the State, the right of redemption will terminate upon any subsequent sale by the State. All information concerning redemption or the initiation of an installment plan of redemption will, upon request, be furnished by B. J. Nuremberg, (Acting) County Tax Collector, 225 North Hill Street, Los Angeles, California. Mailing address, P. O. Box 2102 Terminal Annex, Los Angeles, California 90051.

Dated this 31st day of May, 1974

B. J. NUREMBERG
(Acting) Tax Collector of the County of Los Angeles,
State of California

As provided by law, the State shall have the sole authority to receive all rents, issues and profits arising in any manner from property so deeded to the State.

The properties to be deeded and the subject of this notice are situated in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, and particularly described as follows, to wit:

A MESSAGE TO CLASSIFIED AD USERS

You are about to invest money for an Ad and you are entitled to get results. To accomplish this it is necessary for you to TELL ALL about the details of your offer. Be sure you don't make any of the following errors that prevent results. Readers can't guess on important details. Remember, a well written informative ad will get results faster and cost less in the long run.

1. Don't Omit The Address

Many out-of-town readers will write you but will not spend money for a long distance call.

2. Don't Omit The Phone Number

Many readers will call you but do not find it convenient to come to your home.

3. Don't Use Blind Box Numbers

Avoid them if at all possible. They are difficult to answer and many people are suspicious of them.

4. Don't Conceal The Price

Surveys show that a high percentage of readers will not answer an ad unless the price is given.

5. Don't Leave Home On The Days You Advertise

Many good prospects will not call the second time if your phone is unanswered.

A challenging new career with one of the world's leading manufacturers of consumer goods. We currently have openings in our dynamic City of Industry facility (the world's largest domestic toy manufacturing plant) for hard-charging MAINTENANCE MACHINISTS with good machine tooling experience.
Stimulating, challenging duties including maintenance, construction and trouble shooting of semi-automatic production and conveyorized machinery used in high volume assembly operation.
To be qualified you must be either a journeyman maintenance mechanic that has completed apprenticeship program and-or have at least 7 years' solid experience. Fine salary, great company benefits and a modern and exciting work environment are just a shot away, so call today!
